Rural Industrialization in India A. V. Arun Kumar, 1997 Thanks to the recent realization that small and micro enterprises have the potential to generate more productive employment opportunities in the national economy Such studies assume importance mainly in the context of changing government policies towards this sector This book reviews the union government policy towards rural industries The primary survey has been restricted to a limited sample drawn from the metal enterprises in Kerala state      Gandhi and globalisation Angadi Ranga Reddy, 2009 Papers presented at the National Seminar on Impact of Gandhian Thought on Globalisation held at Tirupati during 29 30 March 2006      The Third Revolution in the Chinese Countryside Ross Garnaut, Guo Shutian, Ma Guonan, 1996-04-18 The first revolution in the Chinese countryside was the land reform implemented in the liberated areas and extended throughout China after the proclamation of the People's Republic of China in 1949 This was important in the consolidation of the Communist Party's political power The second revolution was the decollectivization of agriculture and the shift to the household responsibility system as a basis for agricultural production The phenomenal increase in Chinese agricultural output from 1978 to 1984 resulted partly from the new system of production and with a resulting explosion of farm incomes The second revolution in the Chinese countryside from the late 1970s set the scene for the third revolution the freeing of markets for farm products and the linking of domestic markets and international markets The third revolution is still in progress and this book explores its beginnings Initially the book covers the issues of poverty in China and feeding the population The second section describes the agricultural markets in China and the price reform of agricultural products The next two parts discuss international and regional issues of China s agricultural economy Finally there are contributions on what institutional changes have been associated with the third agricultural revolution The contributions are from a team of experts on the Chinese economy from inside and outside China led by Professor Garnaut

Trade Liberalisation and Regional Disparity in Pakistan Muhammad Shoaib

Butt, Jayatilake S. Bandara, 2008-12-04 Pakistan s military which has directly controlled the country s affairs for more than half of its post independence history and which often retained real political power even during periods of democratic rule has played a significant role in trade liberalisation Regional disparities have increased since the beginning of major trade liberalisation attempts in the 1980s and at present regional conflicts and the associated regional disparities are extremely high The authors critically review the country s post independence political economy of trade liberalisation the resulting structural change and the story of regional disparities identifying possible relations with political regimes Using a regional computable general equilibrium CGE model the effects of trade liberalisation on regional disparities are quantitatively examined with an emphasis on the key export industries at a national level and on the relative output and employment growth at a regional level In the first study to distinguish a possible link between trade liberalisation and regional disparities under dissimilar political regimes such as autocracy and democracy Butt and Bandara use Pakistan as a case study to draw broader lessons for other developing countries This book will be of interest to academics economists political analysts and policymakers interested in development economics in general and South Asia in particular

Rural Industrialisation in West Bengal Pradip Kumar Biswas, 2003 This book analyses the pattern and basis of rural industrialisation in West Bengal Existence of long tradition of crafts indigenous institutions of skill formation of trading of social and community networks of the petty producers helped a rapid growth of the industries given the favourable conditions created by the state in the 1970s and 1980s Analysing the experience of England Japan and China the book identifies factors like slow growth of agriculture ineffective and often contradictory state policies of innovations and training incentives credit and reservation as being primarily responsible for the poor performance of the Indian rural industries These problems notwithstanding West Bengal government s active role made a favourable impact on rural industries The institutions such as master traders systems and cooperatives facilitated innovation and skill upgradation smooth adoption of improved technology promotion of new products But due to overall change in the attitude and economic policy of the country towards free market without preparation at the ground level the rural industries start declining
