Pediatric Oncology 1 G. Bennett Humphrey, Louis P. Dehner, Gerald B. Grindey, Ronald T. Acton, 2012-12-06 Where do you begin to look for a recent authoritative article on the diagnosis or management of a particular malignancy The few general oncology textbooks are generally out of date Single papers in specialized journals are informative but seldom comprehensive these are more often preliminary reports on a very limited number of patients Certain general journals frequently publish good in-depth reviews of cancer topics and published symposium lectures are often the best overviews available Unfortunately these reviews and supplements appear sporadically and the reader can never be sure when a topic of special interest will be covered Cancer Treatment and Research is a series of authoritative volumes which aim to meet this need It is an attempt to establish a critical mass of oncology literature covering virtually all oncology topics revised frequently to keep the coverage up to date easily available on a single library shelf or by a single personal subscription We have approached the problem in the following fashion First by dividing the oncology literature into specific subdivisions such as lung cancer genitourinary cancer pediatric oncology etc Second by asking eminent authorities in each of these areas to edit a volume on the specific topic on an annual or biannual basis Each topic and tumor type is covered in a volume appearing frequently and predictably discussing current diagnosis staging markers all forms of treatment modalities basic biology and more HLA

TYPING METHODOLOGY & CLINICAL ASPECTS Solheim, 1982-07-07 Methods in Membrane Biology Edward D. Korn, 2012-12-06 Volume 3 continues the approach carried out in the first two volumes of this series of publishing articles on membrane methodology which include in addition to procedural details incisive discussions of the applications of the methods and of their limitations What is the theoretical basis of the method how and to what problems can it be applied how does one interpret the results what has thus far been achieved by the method what lies in the future these are the questions the authors have tried to answer No area of membrane biology engages the interest of more investigators than studies of the plasma membrane Four chapters in this volume are concerned with one or more aspects of the cell surface Fundamental to all studies of the cell surface are the isolation and characterization of pure plasma membranes Many preparations described in the literature are inadequate or are inadequately characterized In the first chapter Neville discusses the theoretical and practical bases of tissue fractionation emphasizes the variations in enzyme content among plasma membranes from different sources offers guidance in the choice of the proper criteria for assessing membrane purity and suggests the best markers for detecting the possible presence of contaminating organelles To review in detail each of the many preparations of plasma membranes that have been published is impossible Basic & Clinical Immunology Daniel P.
