

ODE TO A NOBODY

RIGHT OR WRONG?

How can it be so wrong, when it feels so right?
How can it be so wrong when you love someone and your heart takes flight?

Who can say what's right or wrong?

Nobody knows what the future brings along

It feels so good and it feels so right

When you feel one more wish and every night

How can it be so wrong, when it feels so right?

How can it be so wrong when you love and the future's bright?

Who should say whether it's right or wrong?

This is just part of life's love song

It feels so good and it feels so nice

Your dream, you know the dream

How can it be so wrong, when it feels so right?

They say it's so blue, but clouds are white

Who does say what's right or wrong?

My heart with you, my feelings so strong

It feels so good, like a production

So long as you, so long as we're around

This is right, there is no wrong

I know for sure where my heart belongs

I will say whether it's right or wrong

I've loved you darling all along

It is so good, it is so right

You are my life, you are my light

Written with love and fear

De Berenger's Helps and hints. Macaulay's Lays of ancient Rome. A few words on Shakespeare John Wilson,1857 The Star You Steer by James McGonigal,Richard Price,2000 This book explores Basil Bunting's continued reputation and influence in modern British poetry and also the impact of a peculiarly Northern inflection of Modernism which Bunting largely defined within the varieties of poetry being written in Britain today. The editors asked a variety of English Scottish Welsh and American poets and academics to reflect upon the themes, implications, impact or example of Bunting's work in the centenary year of his birth, looking back on the beginnings of Modernism at the start of the twentieth century into which he was born or forward into the twenty-first century in which he continues to be read and learned from. A true poetic star to steer by. The resulting collection of fourteen new essays reveals the continued ability of Bunting's poetry both to delight and to challenge. Topics covered include the nature of influence, Celtic and Northumbrian contexts for the modern English long poem, prosodic patterns in early Bunting, Bunting as a reader of his own work, narrative sources in his poetry, the problem of patronage, his rueful masculinity, women poets and Bunting's radical landscape poetry, his translations from the Persian Hafiz and the Roman Horace, economic and social tensions in his work, the poet as maker and a previously unpublished selection of his letters from the 1960s to the 1980s, commenting upon his own and others' poetry and on the political condition of Britain in those years. The collection will be of interest to teachers and readers of twentieth-century English and American poetry and to those exploring the processes of literary translation. Focusing on some of the deepest instincts of American life and culture, individual liberty, freedom of speech, constructing a life. Arnold Weinstein brilliantly sketches the remarkable career of the American self in some of the major works of the past one hundred fifty years. Weinstein contends that American writers are haunted by the twin specters of the self as a mirage as Nobody and by the brutal forces of culture and ideology that deny selfhood to people on the basis of money, sex and color of skin. His central thesis is that language makes possible freedoms and accomplishments that are achievable in no other realm and that American fiction is a fascinating record of the human fight against coercion, of the kinds of maneuvering room that we may find in life and in art This study is unique in several respects it offers some of the keenest readings of major American texts that have ever been written including some of the most significant works of the past decades and it fashions a rich and supple view of the American novel as a writerly form of freedom in sharp contrast to today's critical emphasis on blindness and co option Punch Mark Lemon, Henry Mayhew, Tom Taylor, Shirley Brooks, Francis Cowley Burnand, Owen Seaman, 1921
