Of Time Place American Figurative Art From The Corcoran Gallery:

Of Time and Place Corcoran Gallery of Art (New York, N.Y.), Edward J. Nygren, 1981 Of Time & Place Corcoran Gallery of Art (Wash.), 1981 OF TIME & PLACE PB NYGREN EDWARD J, 2000-01-01 Homer, Eakins, and Anshutz: The Search for American Identity in the Gilded Age Randall C. Griffin, 2004 Randall Griffin's book examines the ways in which artists and critics sought to construct a new identity for America during the era dubbed the Gilded Age because of its leaders' taste for opulence. Artists such as Winslow Homer, Thomas Eakins, and Thomas Anshutz explored alternative American themes and styles, but widespread belief in the superiority of European art led them and their audiences to look to the Old World for legitimacy. This rich, never-resolved contradiction between the native and the autonomous, on the one hand, and on the other, the European and the borrowed, serves as the armature of Griffin's innovative look at how and why the world of art became a key site in the American struggle for identity. Not only does Griffin trace the interplay of issues of nationalism, class, and gender in American culture, but he also offers insightful readings of key paintings by Eakins and other canonical artists. Further, Griffin shows that by 1900 the nationalist project in art and criticism had helped open the way for the formulation of American modernism. Homer, Eakins, and Anshutz will be of importance to all those interested in American culture as well as to specialists in art history and art criticism. Nineteenth-century American Art Barbara S. Groseclose, 2000 Many well-known artists, including Thomas Eakins and Winslow Homer, and lesser-known artists like Harriet Hosmer, are closely examined as is the art world of the time. In addition to discussing the free movement of American visual culture between high and low, Barbara Groseclose interweaves nineteenth-century art criticism with current art history to create a fascinating insight into the changing interpretations of American art of this period. BOOK JACKET Bessie Potter Vonnoh Julie Aronson, Janis C. Conner, 2008 In the Gilded Age, when most sculptors aspired to produce monuments, Bessie Potter Vonnoh (1872-1955) made significant contributions to small bronze sculpture and garden statuary designed for the embellishment of the home. Her work commanded admiration for her fluid and suggestive modeling, graceful lines, and sculptural form. In 1904, Bessie Potter Vonnoh won the gold medal for sculpture at the St. Louis World's Fair for bronzes of contemporary American women and children that delighted all who saw them. Although Vonnoh's work is represented today in museums throughout the United States, Bessie Potter Vonnoh, Sculptor of Women, provides for the first time an intimate and engaging encounter with one of the most widely respected sculptors of her day. Julie Aronson explores how, by concentrating on sculpture for domestic settings that expertly combined naturalism with elegance, Vonnoh negotiated a male-dominated field to create a pathway to professional success and made high-quality sculpture accessible to a wider audience. In an essay that examines Vonnoh's relationship with her foundries and scrutinizes bronze castings, Janis Conner demystifies baffling issues of authenticity and quality in turn-of-the-century bronzes. This copiously illustrated book is indispensable for all sculpture enthusiasts and accompanies the first exhibition since 1930 dedicated to the art of Bessie Potter Vonnoh. American Genre Painting Elizabeth

Johns,1991-01-01 American genre painting flourished in the thirty years before the Civil War a period of rapid social change that followed the election of President Andrew Jackson It has long been assumed that these paintings of farmers western boatmen and trappers blacks both slave and free middle class women urban urchins and other everyday folk served as records of an innocent age reflecting a Jacksonian optimism and faith in the common man In this enlightening book Elizabeth Johns presents a different interpretation arguing that genre paintings had a social function that related in a more significant and less idealistic way to the political and cultural life of the time Analyzing works by William Sidney Mount George Caleb Bingham David Gilmore Blythe Lilly Martin Spencer and others Johns reveals the humor and cynicism in the paintings and places them in the context of stories about the American character that appeared in sources ranging from almanacs and newspapers to joke books and political caricature She compares the productions of American painters with those of earlier Dutch English and French genre artists showing the distinctive interests of American viewers Arguing that art is socially constructed to meet the interests of its patrons and viewers she demonstrates that the audience for American genre paintings consisted of New Yorkers with a highly developed ambition for political and social leadership who enjoyed setting up citizens of the new democracy as targets of satire or condescension to satisfy their need for superiority It was this network of social hierarchies and prejudices and not a blissful celebration of American democracy that informed the look and the richly ambiguous content of genre painting

Miller,1993-01-01 This overview of the sister arts of the nineteenth century by younger scholars in art history literature and American studies presents a startling array of perspectives on the fundamental role played by images in culture and society Drawing on the latest thinking about vision and visuality as well as on recent developments in literary theory and cultural studies the contributors situate paintings sculpture monument art and literary images within a variety of cultural contexts The volume offers fresh and sometimes extended discussions of single works as well as reevaluations of artistic and literary conventions and analyses of the economic social and technological forces that gave them shape and were influenced by them in turn A wide range of figures are significantly reassessed including the painters Charles Willson Peale Washington Allston Thomas Cole George Caleb Bingham Fitz Hugh Lane and Mary Cassatt and such writers as James Fenimore Cooper Nathaniel Hawthorne Henry David Thoreau and William Dean Howells One overarching theme to emerge is the development of an American national subjectivity as it interacted with the transformation of a culture dominated by religious values to one increasingly influenced by commercial imperatives The essays probe the ways in which artists and writers responded to the changing conditions of the cultural milieu as it was mediated by such factors as class and gender modes of perception and representation and conflicting ideals and realities The New American Studies Philip Fisher,1991-01-01 A gathering of major importance Fisher brilliantly articulates the distinctive work of new historicism in treating American texts and circumstances His introduction together with the consistently high quality of the essays and their remarkable range of approaches makes this dramatically superior to earlier collections As a help to working scholars trying to sort out new developments and as an introduction for graduate students this will be the best available guide T Walter Herbert author of Marquesan Encounters Melville and the Meaning of Civilization
