Recent Works In Rural Archaeology:

The Oxford Handbook of Islamic Archaeology Bethany J. Walker, Timothy Insoll, Corisande Fenwick, 2020 Islamic archaeology is young discipline emerging only over the course of the 1980s and 1990s The Oxford Handbook of Islamic Archaeology is the first work of its kind to cover the archaeology of the Islamic world on a global scale from North Africa to China and Europe to sub Saharan Africa Archaeology of Thermalism. New studies on healing waters. Maddalena Bassani, Jacopo Tabolli, Jean MacIntosh Turfa, Mattia Bischeri, Emanuele Mariotti, Edoardo Vanni, Debora Barbagli, Cesare Felici, Olivier de Cazanove, Maria Elena De Venanzi, Marco Pacifici, Silvia González-Soutelo, Laura García-Juan, Fabrizio Caldara, Antonio Chiappetta, Pietro Scimemi, Massimo Osanna, Engramma 214 presents the results of a new season of studies focused on the archaeology of thermal sites The narrative of this first volum emerges ancient votive religion with thermal medicine in context and follows a chronological and spatial order Different papers address the preliminary results of the excavation at Bagno Grande in San Casciano dei Bagni Italy Jean Turfa Emanuele Mariotti Edoardo Vanni Mattia Bischeri This case study becomes an input to revise past and forgotten excavations in Tuscany Jacopo Tabolli Debora Barbagli Cesare Felici Marco Pacifici and to reconsider the votive role of bodies in ancient sanctuaries Olivier de Cazanove From Etruscan to Roman papers discuss places objects and written evidence Maddalena Bassani with a focus on the Euganean area both under the perspective of archaeologists and architects Maddalena Bassani Maria Elena De Venanzi and biologists and medical doctors Fabrizio Caldara Antonio Chiappetta Pietro Scimemi The article by Silvia Gonz lez Soutelo and Laura Garc a Juan proposes abroad methodological approach to the study of thermo mineral sites between Antiquity and the present day Back to San Casciano dei Bagni the last part of the volume presents the encountering of the thermo mineral spring of Bagno Grande in the design of the exhibition at the Archaeological National Museum of Naples Massimo Osanna Jacopo Tabolli

The Archaeology of the Roman Economy Kevin Greene,1986 Kevin Greene shows how archaeology can help provide a more balanced view of the Roman economy by informing the classical historian about geographical areas and classes of society that received little attention from the largely aristocratic classical writers whose work survives The Archaeology of Medieval Villages Currently Inhabited in Europe Jesús Fernández Fernández, Margarita Fernández Mier, 2019-08-29 Archaeological interventions in European rural settlements have largely focussed on villages abandoned during the last millennium Most hamlets and villages of medieval origin remain inhabited however and excavations have been scarce This book details excavations of inhabited sites in the UK the Netherlands France Scandinavia and Spain Handbook of Medieval Studies Albrecht Classen, 2010-11-29 This interdisciplinary handbook provides extensive information about research in medieval studies and its most important results over the last decades The handbook is a reference work which enables the readers to quickly and purposely gain insight into the important research discussions and to inform themselves about the current status of research in the field The handbook consists of four parts The first large section offers articles on all of the main disciplines and discussions of the field The second section presents articles on the key concepts of modern medieval studies and the debates therein The third section is a lexicon of the most important text genres of the Middle Ages The fourth section provides an international bio bibliographical lexicon of the most prominent medievalists in all disciplines A comprehensive bibliography rounds off the compendium The result is a reference work which exhaustively documents the current status of research in medieval studies and brings the disciplines and experts of the field together Archaeology Vardit R. Shotten-Hallel, Rosie Weetch, 2020-11-03 Between the eleventh and fifteenth centuries the social and cultural worlds of medieval Europe and the Eastern Mediterranean were transformed by the religious impetus of the crusades Today we bear witness to these transformations in the material and environmental record revealed by new archaeological excavations and reappraisals of museum collections This volume highlights new archaeological knowledge being developed by scholars working in the fields of history archaeology numismatics and architecture to demonstrate its potential to change and augment our understanding of the crusades The 16 chapters in this volume deploy a contemporary scientific approach to archaeology of the crusades to give an up to date account into the diverse range of research in this area They explore five key themes the implications of scientific methods new excavations and surveys architectural analyses sigillography and the application of social interpretations Together these chapters provide a new way of approaching the study of the crusades and demonstrate the value of taking a holistic view that utilises the full diverse range of evidence The Archaeology of Medieval England and Wales John Steane, 2014-10-30 In the preceding 25 years available to us to this book s publication in 1985 there was an extensive and unprecedented burst of archaeological activity in evidence from below ground deposits above ground structures and artefacts During the boom of the late 1960s and 1970s which led to go much central town redevelopment it was buried remains which yielded the most dramatic information In the recession of the 1980s it was realised that upstanding remains had a lot to offer as well and they were being subject to ever more sophisticated study techniques This book examines those recent developments in archaeology and assesses their bearing on the study of medieval English and Welsh history Taking a series of important themes such as government religion and the countryside the book offers a chronological approach from the coming of the Vikings 850 AD to the Reformation in 1530 This approach focuses on the impact of man on the urban and rural landscape An important text for students of ancient history

A New Etruscan Archaeology Maurizio Forte, 2025 This book presents an overview of the most recent advancements in archaeological methods and technologies in the field of Etruscan archaeology aiming to move the discipline into a new era of technological innovation and multidisciplinary collaboration The book covers a wide range of topics including digital technologies for studying texts and inscriptions remote sensing technologies for understanding cityscapes and landscapes spatial analysis techniques for studying geopolitical patterns and urban configurations cognitive archaeology for exploring Etruscan funerary rituals conservation practices for preserving archaeological structures and paintings the application of neuroscience to study the aesthetic impact of Etruscan artifacts paleoenvironmental studies to understand the relationships between environment and society in ancient Etruria and a multidisciplinary approach to studying ancient textiles The final chapter introduces the field of generative artificial intelligence AI and its potential applications in Etruscan archaeology discussing the limitations and opportunities of AI in archaeological interpretation and the concept of the past as a multiverse By embracing interdisciplinary approaches Etruscan archaeology can contribute to our understanding of the complex relationships between people their environment and the processes of urbanization mobility and historical development in ancient Italy and beyond Provided by publisher The Oxford Handbook of the Merovingian World Bonnie Effros, Isabel Moreira, 2020 The Merovingian world has become more visible in Anglophone historical studies in the past two decades as attention to the social and economic networks of empires and modes of communication has begun to change older frameworks that viewed these centuries in terms of decline and characterized them as the Dark Ages The Merovingian epoch witnessed something which we understand from the perspective of hindsight a tilt to the middle ages. The forty six essays included in this volume thus highlight the vitality and importance of the Merovingian kingdoms in the fifth through eighth centuries Rather than suggest that this was a chaotic and obscure interlude between the Fall of the Roman Empire and the Rise of the Carolingians and named for a dynasty with a reputation for few accomplishments and even fewer memorable kings the essays demonstrate that the Merovingian era is an important field in its own right The Handbook's contributors highlight recent research that moves beyond the political developments that were until recently the bread and butter of most historians and include many contributions based on material culture that shed new light on subjects that previously were inaccessible They demonstrate that the Merovingian world was at the center of a wide ranging Merovingian empire of elites peasants economies and cultures and its story must be told through archaeology bio archaeology architecture hagiographic literature manuscripts liturgy visionary literature and eschatology patristics numismatics and material culture In addition to mainland France the essays encompass the geographic conduits of power culture and trade that connected the Merovingian world with Anglo Saxon England Ireland Frisia Spain Italy North Africa and the Byzantine Empire This network empire of intersecting and often conflicting identities political interests religions economies patronage and cultures were intrinsically connected to contemporary developments not just among the Burgundians and Visigoths but among the Byzantines Avars Anglo Saxons Frisians and the Irish fields that were once viewed like the Merovingians themselves in isolation These important developments reveal why the Merovingian period has attracted new audiences and why it will never be viewed as a Recent Research on the Late Antique Countryside William Bowden, Luke Lavan, Carlos backwater again Machado, 2004-01-01 This book surveys a variety of themes relating to the late antique countryside It covers social and economic life the archaeology of pilgrimage and the fate of rural temples villas monasteries and landscape change There is a special section on rural survey in Turkey a region of the Roman empire for which our knowledge of the countryside is poor A bibliographic essay on the rural archaeology of the entire empire provides an excellent introduction to the volume and to the subject as a whole Essays range from Northern Gaul to Egypt and draw on many sources from papyrology and epigraphy to field survey and paleobotany A complex picture of differing regional trajectories emerges whilst cultural change is everywhere apparent in phenomena such as Christianisation settlement nucleation and fortification Contributors include Beat Brenk Beatrice Caseau Douglas Baird Archie Dunn Etienne Louis Fabio Saggioro John Mitchell Joseph Patrich Lynda Mulvin Carla Sfameni Marcus Rautman Peter Sarris Frank Trombley Joanita Vroom and Marc Waelkens Civitas, and County Stephen Rippon, 2018-04-19 This book explores the development of territorial identity in the late prehistoric Roman and early medieval periods Over the course of the Iron Age a series of marked regional variations in material culture and landscape character emerged across eastern England that reflect the development of discrete zones of social and economic interaction The boundaries between these zones appear to have run through sparsely settled areas of the landscape on high ground and corresponded to a series of kingdoms that emerged during the Late Iron Age In eastern England at least these pre Roman socio economic territories appear to have survived throughout the Roman period despite a trend towards cultural homogenization brought about by Romanization Although there is no direct evidence for the relationship between these socio economic zones and the Roman administrative territories known as civitates they probably corresponded very closely The fifth century saw some Anglo Saxon immigration but whereas in East Anglia these communities spread out across much of the landscape in the Northern Thames Basin they appear to have been restricted to certain coastal and estuarine districts The remaining areas continued to be occupied by a substantial native British population including much of the East Saxon kingdom very little of which appears to have been Saxon By the sixth century a series of regionally distinct identities that can be regarded as separate ethnic groups had developed which corresponded very closely to those that had emerged during the late prehistoric and Roman periods These ancient regional identities survived through to the Viking incursions whereafter they were swept away following the English re conquest and replaced with the counties with which we are familiar today

The Archaeology of Peasantry in Roman Spain Jesús Bermejo Tirado, Ignasi Grau Mira, 2022-01-19 This volume aims to present an updated portrait of the Roman countryside in Roman Spain by the comparison of different theoretical orientations and methodological strategies including the discussion of textual and iconographic sources and the analysis of the faunal remains The archaeology of rural areas of the Roman world has traditionally been focused on the study of villae both as an architectural model of Roman otium and as the central core of an economic system based on the extensive agricultural exploitation of latifundia The assimilation of most rural settlements in provincial areas of the Roman Empire with the villa model implies the acceptance of specific ideas such as the generalization of the slave mode of production the rupture of the productive capacity of Late Iron Age communities or the reduction in importance of free peasant labor in the Roman economy of most rural areas However in recent decades as a consequence of the generalized extension of preventive or emergency archaeology and survey projects in most areas of the ancient territories of the Roman Empire this traditional conception of the Roman countryside articulated around monumental villae is undergoing a thorough revision New research projects are changing our current perception of the countryside of most parts of the Roman provincial world by assessing the importance of different types of rural settlements In the last years we have witnessed the publication of archaeological reports on the excavation of thousands of small rural sites farms farmsteads enclosures rural agglomerations of diverse nature etc One of the main consequences of all this research activity is a vigorous discussion of the paradigm of the slave mode of production as the basis of Roman rural economies in many provincial areas A similar change in the paradigm is taking place with some delay in the archaeology of Roman Spain After decades of preventive emergency interventions there is a considerable quantity of unpublished data on this kind of rural settlements However unlike the cases of Roman Britain or Gallia Comata no synthesis or national projects are undertaking the task of systematizing all these data With the intention of addressing this current situation the present volume discusses the results and methodological strategies of different projects studying peasant settlements in several regions of Roman Global Archaeological Theory Pedro Paulo Funari, Andrés Zarankin, Emily Stovel, 2006-04-07 Archaeological theory Spain has gone through a great upheaval in the last 50 years from the processual theory which wanted to make archaeology more scientific to post processual theory which understands that interpreting human behavior even of past cultures is a subjective study This subjective approach incorporates a plurality of readings thereby implying that different interpretations are always possible allowing us to modify and change our ideas under the light of new information and or interpretive frameworks In this way interpretations form a continuous flow of transformation and change and thus archaeologists do not uncover a real past but rather construct a historical past or a narrative of the past Post processual theory also incorporates a conscious and explicit political interest on the past of the scholar and the subject This includes fields and topics such as gender issues ethnicity class landscapes and consumption This reflects a conscious attempt to also decentralize the discipline from an imperialist point of view to an empowering one Method and theory also means being politically aware and engaged to incorporate diverse critical approaches to improve understanding of the past and the present This book focuses on the fundamental theoretical issues found in the discipline and thus both engages and represents the very rich plurality of the post processual approach to archaeology The book is divided into four sections Issues in Archaeological Theory Archaeological Theory and Method in Action Space and Power in Material Culture and Images as Material Discourse

People and Agrarian Landscapes: An Archaeology of Postclassical Local Societies in the Western Mediterranean Juan Antonio Quirós Castillo, Josu Narbarte Hernández, 2023-04-06 This book provides an overview of the driving theories methodologies and main topics that have been addressed to date regarding agrarian archaeology The text is presented as an introduction for students a critical reading guide for other scholars and an informative instrument aimed at a wide audience Case Studies in Environmental Archaeology Elizabeth Reitz, C. Margaret Scarry, Sylvia J. Scudder, 2008 This book highlights studies addressing significant anthropological issues in the Americas from the perspective of environmental archaeology The book uses case studies to resolve questions related to human behavior in the past rather than to demonstrate the application of methods Each chapter is an original or revised work by an internationally recognized scientist This second edition is based on the 1996 book of the same title The editors have invited back a number of contributors from the first edition to revise and update their chapter New studies are included in order to cover recent developments in the field or additional pertinent topics The Agrarian History of England and Wales: Volume 1, Part 1. H. Creighton, 2005 This paperback edition of a book first published in hardback in 2002 is a fascinating and provocative study which looks at castles in a new light using the theories and methods of landscape studies Norfolk's Archaeology: 1950-2016 Peter Wade-Martins, 2017-11-03 A personal history of Peter Wade Martins archaeological endeavour in Norfolk set within a national context It covers the writer s early experiences as a volunteer the rise of field archaeology as a profession and efforts to conserve archaeological heritage The Archaeology of Harriet Tubman's Life in Freedom Douglas V. Armstrong, 2022-09-09 Harriet Tubman's social activism as well as her efforts as a soldier nurse and spy have been retold in countless books and films and have justly elevated her to iconic status in American history Given her fame and contributions it is surprising how little is known of her later years and her continued efforts for social justice women's rights and care for the elderly Tubman housed and cared for her extended family parents brothers sisters nieces and nephews as well as many other African Americans seeking refuge Ultimately her house just outside of Auburn New York would become a focal point of Tubman's expanded efforts to provide care to those who came to her seeking shelter and support in the form of the Harriet Tubman Home for the Aged In this book Armstrong reconstructs and interprets Tubman's public and private life in freedom through integrating his archaeological findings with historical research The material record Tubman left behind sheds vital light on her life and the ways in which she interacted with local and national communities giving readers a fuller understanding of her impact on the lives of African Americans Armstrong s research is part of a wider effort to enhance public interpretation and engagement with the Harriet Tubman Home The Oxford Companion to Archaeology Neil Asher Silberman, Alexander A. Bauer, 2012-11 The second edition of The Oxford Companion to Archaeology is a thoroughly up to date resource with new entries exploring the many advances in the field since the first edition published in 1996 In 700 entries the second edition provides thorough coverage to historical archaeology the development of archaeology as a field of study and the way the discipline works to explain the past In addition to these theoretical entries other entries describe the major excavations discoveries and innovations from the discovery of the cave paintings at Lascaux to the deciphering of Egyptian hieroglyphics and the use of luminescence dating Recent developments in methods and analytical techniques which have revolutionized the ways excavations are performed are also covered as well as new areas within archeology such as cultural tourism and major new sites which have expanded our understanding of prehistory and human developments through time In addition to significant expansion first edition entries have been thoroughly revised and updated to reflect the progress that has been made in the last decade and a half
