Taking Religion Seriously Across the Curriculum Warren A. Nord, Charles C. Haynes, 1998 The authors chart a middle course in our war over religion and public education one that builds on a developing national consensus among educational and religious leaders While it is not proper for schools to practice religion or proselytize neither is it permissible to make them religion free zones Schools do not take religion seriously as the authors review of textbooks and the new national content standards makes clear In Part One they outline the civic constitutional and educational frameworks that should shape the treatment of religion in the curriculum and classroom In Part Two they explore major issues relating to religion in different domains of the curriculum in elementary education and in middle and high school courses in history civics economics literature and the sciences They also discuss Bible courses and world religions courses and explore the relationship of religion to moral education and sex education

Scriptures, Shrines, Scapegoats, and World Politics Zeev Maoz, Errol A Henderson, 2020-03-16 The effect of religious factors on politics has been a key issue since the end of the Cold War and the subsequent rise of religious terrorism However the systematic investigations of these topics have focused primarily on the effects of religion on domestic and international conflict Scriptures Shrines Scapegoats and World Politics offers a comprehensive evaluation of the role of religion in international relations broadening the scope of investigation to such topics as the relationship between religion and cooperation religion and conflict and the relationship between religion and the quality of life Religion is often manipulated by political elites to advance their principal goal of political survival Zeev Maoz and Errol A Henderson find that no specific religion is either consistently more bellicose or consistently more cooperative than other religions However religious similarity between states tends to reduce the propensity of conflict and increase the opportunity for security cooperation The authors find a significant relationship between secularism and human security

Comparing Cultures and Religions in a Postmodern World Basile Sede Noujio, 2021-03-22 Culture and religion are basic to every human society and the history of a people always sustains her cultural and religious values We decided to use the African culture and religion as our departing point for the mere fact that Africa is generally considered as the cradle of civilization and it is a very historic and controversial continent However while examining some prominent world cultures and religions in a comparative manner our major focus is on the Christian Thomistic culture religion as illustrated by Jacques Maritain in comparison with the African culture religion as expressed by Joseph Ki Zerbo Both thinkers consider that in the midst of multiculturalism and globalization authentic humanism or personalism that is based on the sacredness of the human person should be endorsed as a new civilization or culture Only such a culture can make the future of humankind essentially meaningful and interesting Shifting from all mediocre standards of culture which are based on relativism supported by postmodern thinkers there is a need to get back to the original culture that is based on authentic and objective standards The major difference that we noticed between the Thomistic Christian ideas and those of the Africans is that while Jacques Maritain appeals for Thomistic humanism to grow from the formal classrooms and the books into the streets and the fields Ki Zerbo explains that African humanism has always existed in the streets and in the fields it might never even have existed in the books and in the classrooms The global reaction toward the killing of George Floyd in USA defying all fears of the COVID 19 intensifies the argument that a culture which qualifies one race as being superior over another has to be reexamined and radically eradicated and replaced by authentic humanism

Religion in Today's World Melissa Wilcox,2013-12-19 Religion is a major force in contemporary society It is also one of the least understood social and political influences on individuals and communities In this innovative collection of original essays and classic readings experts explore the significance of contemporary religiosity as a source of meaning and motivation how it unites and divides us and how it is used politically and culturally Readers will be introduced to the broad debates in ways that will equip them to analyze discuss and make their own judgments about religion and society This book should be read by anyone interested in understanding religion as a central source of meaning and politics and is ideally suited for undergraduate teaching on religion and social issues and from a global perspective

From World Religions to Axial Civilizations and Beyond Saïd Amir Arjomand, Stephen Kalberg, 2021-03-01 The post World War II idea of the Axial Age by Karl Jaspers and as elaborated into the sociology of axial civilizations by S N Eisenstadt in the later twentieth and early twenty first centuries continues to be the subject of intense scholarly debate Examples of this can be found in recent works of Hans Joas and Jürgen Habermas In From World Religions to Axial Civilizations and Beyond an internationally distinguished group of scholars discuss advance and criticize the Jaspers Eisenstadt thesis and go beyond it by bringing in the critical influence of Max Weber s sociology of world religions and by exploring intercivilizational encounters in key world regions The essays within this volume are of unusual interest for their original analysis of relatively neglected civilizational zones especially Islam and the Islamicate civilization and the Byzantine civilization and its continuation in Orthodox Russia
