Religious Intimacies Mary Dunn, Brenna Moore, 2020-11-03 Scholars of religion have come a long way since William James famously made of religion a matter between man and his maker For decades now they have been attentive to the ways in which religion takes shape as the product of broad social forces focusing on the dynamics of power and culture as heuristics for understanding religious phenomena and experience What however might they be missing by moving too quickly from one interpretative extreme to the other and what might we learn about religion by staying in the interstitial space between the individual in her solitude and society as a whole Religious Intimacies edited by Mary Dunn and Brenna Moore brings together nine scholars of modern Christianity to probe this in between space In essays that range from treatments of Jesuit indigenous relations in early modern Canada to the erotics of contemporary black theology each contributor makes the case for the study of the presence and power of affective ties and relational dynamics between friends lovers and intimate others even things as vital to the understanding of religion
