Metamorphosis and Place Mohamed Bakari, Joshua Parker, Lucie Tunkrova, 2009-05-27 If personal and national identity is often constructed in terms of place how do our identities and values change as places themselves are transformed What happens to the spaces in which we live as societal values and identities change These questions can be asked of almost any discipline whether one is taking a photograph or mapping a literary topography tracing linguistic change in a geographic region or language's importance to our conception of a political territory building a house or place of worship on a physical plot of land or constructing them from words on a page or computer software Few places are ever uniquely our own We share them knowing that the geographic points stabilizing our own identities serve on their reverse side to support an entirely different set of meanings We project our cultural or disciplinary markers onto landscapes which are already hardly blank but full of others meanings This collection brings together scholars from a range of disciplines including literary and cultural studies history political science architecture anthropology photography and art history communications sociology lexicography linguistics tourism management and theoretical psychoanalysis each shedding light on how place is both a transforming subject and a transformed object

Pope's Mythologies A.D. Cousins, Daniel Derrin, 2023-05-05 This volume is the first to discuss the canon of Pope's verse in relation to Early British Enlightenment thinking about mythology and mythography Pope did not merely use classical along with non classical mythology in his verse as a traditional richly diverse medium through which to represent the diversity of private and civic life in his day but he was an ambitious translator as well as refashioner of myth It is a medium that he shapes anew and variously across all his major poems This volume enhances appreciation of myth as a mode of apprehension as well as expression throughout Pope's verse In doing so it illuminates how in early eighteenth century Britain understandings of what myth is and what it does were taking new directions not least in response to Baconian thought and its legacy

Constant Bearing - Decreasing Range Skip Vogel, Jd Hamilton, 2006-12 In addition to other social experiments of the 1970s some members of the American judiciary offered freshly convicted criminals the option of joining the U S armed forces instead of serving their sentences As a result the U S Navy among the other branches was diluted with criminally and psychologically dangerous miscreants to the detriment of the service and thus the safety of the nation Captain Yorel YN3 Lain Byrd and Seaman Apprentice Sam Ellis share a dedication to their country and their duty in stark contrast to the criminal irresponsibility endless intrigue and other misbehavior of the Navy's new human flotsam Publisher's description
