Making Place, Making Self Inger Birkeland, 2017-03-02 Making Place Making Self explores new understandings of place and place making in late modernity covering key themes of place and space tourism and mobility sexual difference and subjectivity Using a series of individual life stories it develops a fascinating polyvocal account of leisure and life journeys These stories focus on journeys made to the North Cape in Norway the most northern point of mainland Europe which is both a tourist destination and an evocation of a reliable and secure point of reference an idea that gives meaning to an individual's life The theoretical core of the book draws on an inter weaving of post Lacanian versions of feminist psycho analytical thinking with phenomenological and existential thinking where place making is linked with self making and homecoming By combining such ground breaking theory with her innovative use of case studies Inger Birkeland here provides a major contribution to the fields of cultural geography tourism and feminist studies

An Earth-colored Sea Miguel Vale de Almeida, 2004-03-01 Although the post colonial situation has attracted considerable interest over recent years one important colonial power Portugal has not been given any attention This book is the first to explore notions of ethnicity race culture and nation in the context of the debate on colonialism and postcolonialism The structure of the book reflects a trajectory of research starting with a case study in Trinidad followed by another one in Brazil and ending with yet another one in Portugal The three case studies written in the ethnographic genre are intertwined with essays of a more theoretical nature The non monographic composite or hybrid nature of this work may be in itself an indication of the need for transnational and historically grounded research when dealing with issues of representations of identity that were constructed during colonial times and that are today reconfigured in the ideological struggles over cultural meanings
