Remembering Ahanagran Richard White, 2003-01-01 Sara Walsh was born in 1919 in the west of Ireland in a land of storytellers In prose that is neither history nor memoir but something larger and brighter than both Remembering Ahanagran captures her memories of her early years in Ireland her migration to the United States and her marriage to Harry White the Harvard educated son of Russian Jewish emigrants Her son eminent historian Richard White in collaboration with Sara forces history as it is traditionally written into conversation with personal recollections Richard White is Margaret Byrne Professor of American History at Stanford University Richard White gives us a beautifully rendered account of his mother's life tracing her journey as a young girl from Ireland toward the new identities she forged for herself in Boston and Chicago Subtly weaving memory and history to suggest how the two reinforce but also challenge each other Remembering Ahanagran is a powerful meditation on the immigrant experience in America It is an absolutely wonderful book William Cronon In this brilliant book Richard White proves that he is not only one of the finest historians in America but also one of the most eloquent and ambitious Through a loving but clear eyed examination of the tales his immigrant mother tells of her early life in Ireland and the United States he has managed to uncover a host of surprising truths about his own family about the complex often poignant relationship between history and memory and about what it means to be an American Geoffrey C Ward Remembering Ahanagran is a rare and remarkable achievement a book that carries as great a charge in emotional power as it does in intellectual energy Sara Walsh's memory and Richard White's history travel through terrain from the most urgent American concerns of immigration and intermarriage to the most elemental universal issues of love and death This book gives its readers access to the company of two people with extraordinary gifts for life's basic enterprise taking in experience and making sense of it Patricia Nelson Limerick With equal and equally tender respect for document memory and lore Richard White recreates and joins his Irish and his Jewish ancestry An extraordinary book Lore Segal Remembering Ahanagran Richard White, 1998 Living with the Dead Laura King, 2025-01-29 This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4.0 International licence It is free to read on the Oxford Academic platform and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations The dead are everywhere in family life From a great grandmother's recipe made time and again to a dog eared black and white photo of a family on a beach and from a carefully curated family bible to a much told story of a family fleeing their home many decades ago families are made by their pasts This book examines the relationship between the living and the dead within family life charting the way families create afterlives for their ancestors It asks who and what gets to be remembered and why Considering different points of connection with the dead in each chapter through graves homes things photos writing research and stories this book demonstrates how death and the dead remain a crucial presence within family life Through an innovative methodology of collaborative critical family history Living with the Dead features interviews personal archives and the results of a collaboration with fifteen family historians including the author's own family. What results is a unique way of exploring family pasts of charting not only how families have remembered their dead and passed on their histories over time but the mechanisms of how histories are constructed and shared. Living with the Dead reveals how crucial the dead and stories of them are within families and provides new ways for historians to unpick the way history is intimately made. Memories of Belonging: Descendants of Italian Migrants to the United States, 1884-Present Christa Wirth, 2015-02-11 Memories of Belonging is a three generation oral history study of the offspring of southern Italians who migrated to Worcester Massachusetts in 1913. Supplemented with the interviewees' private documents and working from U.S. and Italian archives, Christa Wirth documents a century of transatlantic migration, assimilation, and later generation self-identification. Her research reveals how memories of migration, everyday life, and ethnicity are passed down through the generations, altered and contested while constituting family identities. The fact that not all descendants of Italian migrants moved into the U.S. middle class, combined with their continued use of hyphenated identities, points to a history of lived ethnicity and societal exclusion. Moreover, this book demonstrates the extent of forgetting that is required in order to construct an ethnic identity. Novel History Mark C. Carnes, 2004-03-05 Historical fiction is a contradiction in terms. History is what happened; fiction, what did not. Yet great novelists have often disregarded this logical difficulty, taking up the tools of the historian to explore the shadowy recesses of the past. Their labors have brought forth many literary treasures. But how accurately do these masterpieces of the imagination reflect the past? In Novel History, twenty accomplished historians consider this question in relation to some of our most important historical novels. Their essays are followed in most instances by a response from the novelist. These dialogues illuminate one of the most fascinating and perplexing issues of our time: the relation between the real past and our finest imaginative renderings of it. Novel History includes essays by distinguished historians such as John Demos, Michael Kammen, Joan D. Hedrick, John Lukacs, Eugene D. Genovese, Richard White, and Tom Wicker, and responses from notable novelists including Gore Vidal, John Updike, Russell Banks, Don DeLillo, Larry McMurtry, Jane Smiley, Madison Smartt Bell, William Styron, T. Coraghessan Boyle, William Kennedy, Charles Frazier, Thomas Fleming, and Tim O'Brien. Novel History is both a uniquely compelling perspective and a superb collection of literary history. The Colonization of Mi'kmaw Memory and History, 1794-1928 William C. Wicken, 2012-06-15 In 1927 Gabriel Sylliboy, the Grand Chief of the Mi'kmaw of Atlantic Canada, was charged with trapping muskrats out of season. At appeal in July 1928, Sylliboy and five other men recalled conversations with parents, grandparents, and community members to explain how they understood a treaty their people had signed with the British in 1752. Using this testimony as a starting point, William Wicken traces Mi'kmaw memories of the treaty, arguing that as colonization altered Mi'kmaw society, community interpretations of the treaty changed as well. The Sylliboy case was part of a broader debate within Canada about Aboriginal peoples' legal status within Confederation. In using the 1752 treaty to try and establish a legal identity separate from that of other Nova Scotians, Mi'kmaw leaders contested federal and provincial attempts to force their assimilation into Anglo Canadian society Integrating matters of governance and legality with an exploration of historical memory The Colonization of Mi kmaw Memory and History offers a nuanced understanding of how and why individuals and communities recall the past
