Renaissance Fables Aesopic Prose Medieval Renaissance Texts Studies Series V 26:

Humanism and the Urban World Caspar Pearson, 2015-10-20 In Humanism and the Urban World Caspar Pearson offers a profoundly revisionist account of Leon Battista Alberti's approach to the urban environment as exemplified in the extensive theoretical treatise De re aedificatoria On the Art of Building in Ten Books brought mostly to completion in the 1450s as well as in his larger body of written work. Past scholars have generally characterized the Italian Renaissance architect and theorist as an enthusiast of the city who envisioned it as a rational Renaissance ideal. Pearson argues however that Alberti's approach to urbanism was far more complex than he was even essentially hostile to the city at times. Rather than proposing the ideal city, Pearson maintains, Alberti presented a variety of possible cities, each one different from another. This book explores the ways in which Alberti sought to remedy urban problems, tracing key themes that manifest in De re aedificatoria. Chapters address Alberti's consideration of the city's possible destruction and the city's capacity to provide order despite its intrinsic instability; his assessment of a variety of political solutions to that instability; his affinity for the countryside and discussions of the virtues of the active versus the contemplative life; and his theories of aesthetics and beauty, in particular the belief that beauty may affect the soul of an enemy and thus preserve buildings from attack. Medieval Jewish Philosophy and Its Literary Forms Aaron W. Hughes, James T. Robinson, 2019-07-11 This well-written, accessible essay collection demonstrates a maturation in Jewish studies and medieval philosophy. Choice Too often the study of philosophical texts is carried out in ways that do not pay significant attention to how the ideas contained within them are presented, articulated, and developed. This was not always the case. The contributors to this collected work consider Jewish philosophy in the medieval period when new genres and forms of written expression were flourishing in the wake of renewed interest in ancient philosophy. Many medieval Jewish philosophers were highly accomplished poets; for example, they made conscious efforts to write in a poetic style. This volume turns attention to the connections that medieval Jewish thinkers made between the literary, the exegetical, the philosophical, and the mystical to shed light on the creativity and diversity of medieval thought. As they broaden the scope of what counts as medieval Jewish philosophy, the essays collected here consider questions about how an argument is formed, how text is put into the service of philosophy, and the social and intellectual environment in which philosophical texts were produced. Nineteenth-Century Literature Criticism Russel Whitaker, Kathy D. Perceiving Animals Erica Fudge,2002 The boundaries between human and beast forged a rugged philosophical landscape across early modern England Spectators gathered in London's Bear Garden to watch the callous and brutal baiting of animals A wave of new scientists performed vivisections on live animals to learn more about the human body In Perceiving Animals the British scholar Erica Fudge traces the dangers and problems of anthropocentrism in texts written from 1558 to 1649 Meticulous examinations of scientific legal political literary and religious writings offer unique and fascinating depictions of human perceptions about the natural world Views carried over from bestiaries medieval treatises on animals posited animals as nonsentient beings whose merits were measured solely by what provisions they afforded humans food medicine clothing travel labor scientific knowledge Without consciences or faith animals were deemed far inferior to humans While writings from the period asserted an enormous biological superiority Fudge contends actual human behavior and logic worked sometimes accidentally to close the alleged gap In the Bear Garden even a man of the lowest social rank had power over a tortured animal sinking him though below the beasts The beast fable itself fails to show a true understanding of animals as it merely attributes human characteristics to beasts in an attempt to teach humanist ideals Scholars and writers continually turned to the animal world for reflection Despite this scientists of the period used animals for empirical and medical knowledge recognizing biological and spiritual similarities but refusing to renege human superiority Including an insightful reexamination of Ben Jonson s Volpone and fascinating looks at works by Francis Bacon Edward Coke and Richard Overton among others Fudge probes issues of animal ownership and biological and spiritual superiority in early modern England that resonate with philosophical quandaries still relevant in contemporary society

Perceiving Animals NA
NA,2016-04-30 When we look at the human understanding of beasts in the past what we see are not only the foundations of our own perception of animals but humans contemplating their own status Perceiving Animals argues that what is revealed in a wide range of writing from the early modern period is a recurring attempt to separate the human from the beast Looking at the representation of the animal in law religious writings literary representation science and political ideas what emerges is a sense of the fragility of humanity a sense of a species which always requires an external addition property civilisation education mastery of the natural world to be fully human Erica Fudge engages with both canonical and non canonical texts from the period 1558 1649 and examines previously unchallenged aspects of the status of humanity what does it mean to own an animal How does civilisation take place and what does this tell us about uncivilised man What does the humanist emphasis on education mean for the uneducated Does science ever offer humanity separation from the beast Texts by writers including Edward Coke Ben Jonson Francis Bacon and Richard Overton are re examined and the status of humanity comes under question Perceiving Animals argues that within early modern English culture there is an uncomfortable sense of humanity with a superiority which is not innate but dangerously unnatural

Contemporary Literary Criticism Jeffery Hunter,2005
Covers authors who are currently active or who died after December 31 1959 Profiles novelists poets playwrights and other creative and nonfiction writers by providing criticism taken from books magazines literary reviews newspapers and scholarly journals
