Auto Hans Hedberg, Gunilla Knappe, Tyrone Martinsson, Louise Wolthers, 2014 Today we are all photographers Self portraits are everywhere and snapshots of our lives are circulated and shared frenetically on various social media networks Distinctions are blurred not only between the private and public spheres but also between professional and amateur photographic practices This calls for increased knowledge about the performative characteristics of digitised and networked visual communication What are the limits of automation and what is the potential of virtuality Auto investigates how the everyday digital photography of our times challenges notions of autobiography interactivity and democracy Image Or Imagination? - The Problem of Photographic Representation Anne Thoma, 2007-07 Seminar paper from the year 2006 in the subject Communications Theories Models Terms and Definitions grade 1.0 University of Tübingen Englishes Seminar course Key Terms for Studying Culture 39 entries in the bibliography language English abstract Altered pictures have always caused much controversy Even when photography was still in its infancy manipulative arrangement was already an issue Nowadays digital photography in particular faces an erosion of trust because newsmagazines and newspapers make frequent use of various manipulation techniques which fiercely challenges the shared belief that photographs record the world objectively and truthfully Oddly enough even though a picture may lie it is still used as evidence in the courtroom or understood as a valuable historical document In my analysis of photography's oscillation between image and imagination with the two terms representing something traditionally thought of as real on the one hand and something thought of as constructed on the other hand I want to address these questions and analyse how and what a picture represents I argue that meaning is to a large extent constructed by the viewer and does not exist as an inherent quality Consequently whether an altered picture is seen as fraud or merely as an optimisation is a very subjective matter and strongly depends on contextual information The viewer's judgement is influenced by the path through which the image is mediated and the context in which it is embedded but his judgement is also dependent on what the image means to him not only on what he sees in it This is not to say that photographs can under no circumstances be used as evidence However what can be said is that their truth value is often overestimated In any case manipulation is not a side effect that coincided with the birth of digital photography Selection framing and other adjustments have always played an important role in film photography After a gen On The
