Representing Reality Issues And Concepts In Documentary:

Representing Reality Bill Nichols, 1991 This book offers a conceptual overview of documentary filmmaking practice It addresses numerous social issues and how they are presented to the viewer by means of style rhetoric and narrative technique The volume poses questions about the relationship of the documentary tradition to power the body authority knowledge and our experience of history This study advances the pioneering work of Nichols s earlier book Ideology and the Image The rigorous discussion of modes of documentary representation the relationship between narrative and nonfiction and the representation of the body including a chapter on pornography ethnography and power give this book enormous value for the study of visual anthropology and ethnographic film The often neglected relationship between signifier and referent is the special focus of this intensive study of documentary film The concluding discussion of the representation of the body will also be of special interest to semioticians

Creating Reality in Factual Television Manfred W. Becker, 2020-10-07 Creating Reality in Factual Television analyzes the uneasy interaction between economics culture and professional ethics in reality and documentary television storytelling Through the frankenbite an editorial tool that extracts and re orders the salient elements or single words of a statement interview or exchange into a revealing confession or argument the book explores how and why editors manipulate truth in factual television The author considers how the editing of documentary television is increasingly following reality television's dictate to entertain instead of inform how the real and the truth fall victim to the demand to tell entertaining stories and how editors must compromise their professional ethics as a result Drawing on interviews with 75 North American and European editors that explore their experiences and opinions of reality and documentary television practices and their views on their responsibilities and loyalties in the field Creating Reality in Factual Television illuminates the real and potential ethical dilemmas of editorial decision making the context in which decisions are made and how editors themselves validate the editing choices to themselves and others Addressing a dramatic development in contemporary media ecology the age of alternative facts this book is a useful research tool for scholars and students of documentary film media literacy genre

Wag the Dog: A Study on Film and Reality in the Digital Age Eleftheria Thanouli, 2013-08-01 Wag the Dog is a film that became a media event and a cultural icon because it inadvertently short circuited the distance that is supposed to separate reality and fiction. The film's narration challenges the established boundaries between the fiction and nonfiction tradition as Barry Levinson the director embeds his interest in documentary filmmaking and complicates the issue of narrative agency in the way he frames the story. The examination of the historical and social context in which it was produced exhibited and received worldwide enables the author to illuminate a series of changes in the way a fiction film reflects and interacts with reality urging us to reconsider some of our central and long standing concepts or even paradigms in film theory. Eleftheria Thanouli provides new insights into a series of issues from both classical and contemporary film theory like the conceptual and ontological stakes in the use of digital technology the impact of mass media on public memory and the political role of cinema in a globalized and conglomerated world.

Reacting to Reality Television Beverley Skeggs, Helen Wood, 2012-05-04 The unremitting explosion of reality television across the schedules has become a sustainable global phenomenon generating considerable popular and political fervour. The zeal with which television executives seize on the easily replicated formats is matched equally by the eagerness of audiences to offer themselves up as television participants for others to watch and criticise. But how do we react to so many people breaking down fronting up tearing apart dominating empathising humiliating and seemingly laying bare their raw emotion for our entertainment? Do we feel sad when others are sad? Or are we relieved by the knowledge that our circumstances might be better? As reality television extends into the experiences of the everyday it makes dramatic and often shocking the mundane aspects of our intimate relations inviting us as viewers into a volatile arena of mediated morality. This book addresses the impact of this endless opening out of intimacy as an entertainment trend that erodes the traditional boundaries between spectator and performer demanding new tools for capturing television's relationships with audiences. Rather than asking how the reality television genre is interpreted as text or representation the authors investigate the politics of viewer encounters as interventions evocations and more generally mediated social relations. The authors show how different reactions can involve viewers in tournaments of value as women viewers empathise and struggle to validate their own lives. The authors use these detailed responses to challenge theories of the self governmentality and ideology. A must read for both students and researchers in audience studies television studies and media and communication studies.

Television Jeremy G. Butler, 2012-02-20 For nearly two decades Television: Critical Methods and Applications has served as the foremost guide to television studies. Designed for the television studies course in communication and media studies curricula Television explains in depth how television programs and commercials are made and how they function as producers of meaning. Author Jeremy G. Butler shows the ways in which camera style lighting set design editing and sound combine to produce meanings that viewers take away from their television experience. He supplies students with a whole toolbox of implements to disassemble television and read between the lines teaching them to incorporate critical thinking into their own television viewing The fourth edition builds upon the pedagogy of previous editions to best accommodate current modes of understanding and teaching television Highlights of the fourth edition include New chapter and part organization to reflect the current approach to teaching television with greatly expanded methods and theories chapters An entirely new chapter on modes of production and their impact on what you see on the screen Discussions integrated throughout on the latest developments in television s on going convergence with other media such as material on transmedia storytelling and YouTube s impact on video distribution Over three hundred printed illustrations including new and better quality frame grabs of recent television shows and commercials A companion website featuring color frame grabs a glossary flash cards and editing and sound exercises for students as well as PowerPoint presentations sample syllabi and other materials for instructors Links to online videos that support examples in the text are also provided With its distinctive approach to examining television Television is appropriate for courses in television studies media criticism and general critical studies

Reform Cinema in Iran Blake Atwood,2016-11-08 It is nearly impossible to separate contemporary Iranian cinema from the Islamic revolution that transformed film production in the country in the late 1970s As the aims of the revolution shifted and hardened once Khomeini took power and as an eight year war with Iraq dragged on Iranian filmmakers confronted new restrictions In the 1990s however the Reformist Movement led by Mohammad Khatami and the film industry developed an unlikely partnership that moved audiences away from revolutionary ideas and toward a discourse of reform In Reform Cinema in Iran Blake Atwood examines how new industrial and aesthetic practices created a distinct cultural and political style in Iranian film between 1989 and 2007 Atwood analyzes a range of popular art and documentary films He provides new readings of internationally recognized films such as Abbas Kiarostami s Taste of Cherry 1997 and Mohsen Makhmalbaf s Time for Love 1990 as well as those by Rakhshan Bani Masud Kiami and other key Iranian directors At the same time he also considers how filmmakers and the film industry were affected by larger political and religious trends that took shape during Mohammad Khatami s presidency 1997 2005 Atwood analyzes political speeches religious sermons and newspaper editorials and pays close attention to technological developments particularly the rise of video to determine their role in democratizing filmmaking and realizing the goals of political reform He concludes with a look at the legacy of reform cinema including films produced under Mahmoud Ahmadinejad whose neoconservative discourse rejected the policies of reform that preceded him

Chinese Documentaries Yingchi Chu,2007-06-20 In China unlike in Western cinema documentary film rather than fiction film has been the dominant mode since 1949 In recent years documentary TV programmes have experienced a meteoric rise Arguing that there is a gradual process of democratization in the media in which documentaries play a significant role this book discusses various types of Chinese documentaries under both the planned and the market economy. It especially explores the relationship between documentaries and society showing how under the market economy although the government continues to use the genre as propaganda to promote its ideologies and policies documentaries are being used as a medium where public concerns and alternative voices can be heard.

Nordic Film Cultures and Cinemas of Elsewhere Anna Westerstahl Stenport, 2019-09-27 Nordic Film Cultures and Cinemas of Elsewhere introduces a new concept to Nordic film studies as well as to other small national transnational and world cinema traditions. Examining overlooked elsewheres the book presents Nordic cinemas as international cosmopolitan diasporic and geographically dispersed from their beginnings in the early silent period to their present 21st century dynamics. Exploring both canonical works by directors like Ingmar Bergman and Lars von Trier as well as a wide range of unknown or overlooked narratives of movement synthesis and resistance the book offers a new model of inquiry into a multi varied Scandinavian cultural lineage and into small nation and pan regional world cinemas.
