Reproductive Freedom, Torture and International Human Rights Ronli Sifris, 2013-12-13 This book contributes to a feminist understanding of international human rights by examining restrictions on reproductive freedom through the lens of the right to be free from torture and other cruel inhuman or degrading treatment Ronli Sifris challenges the view that torture only takes place within the traditional paradigm of interrogation punishment or intimidation of a detainee arguing that this traditional construction of the concept of torture prioritises the experiences of men over the experiences of women given that the pain and suffering from which women disproportionately suffer frequently occurs outside of this context She does this by conceptualising restrictions on women's reproductive freedom within the framework of the right to be free from torture The book considers the gendered nature of international law and the gender dimensions of the right to be free from torture It examines the extension of the prohibition of torture to encompass situations beyond the traditional detainee context in recent years to encompass situations such as rape and female genital mutilation It goes on to explore in detail whether denying access to abortion and involuntary sterilization constitutes torture or other cruel inhuman or degrading treatment under international law The book looks at whether limitations on reproductive freedom meet the determining criteria of torture which are severe pain or suffering being intentionally inflicted being based on discrimination linked in some way to a State official whether they constitute lawful sanctions and the importance of the concept of powerlessness In doing so the book also highlights how this right may be applicable to other gender based abuses including female genital mutilation and how this right may be universally applied to allow women worldwide the right to reproductive freedom

Reproductive Politics and the Making of Modern India Mytheli Sreenivas, 2021-06-04 Finalist for the inaugural ACLS Open Access Book Prize Calculating the cost of life in a transnational context Beginning in the late nineteenth century India played a pivotal role in global conversations about population and reproduction In Reproductive Politics and the Making of Modern India Mytheli Sreenivas demonstrates how colonial administrators postcolonial development experts nationalists eugenicists feminists and family planners all aimed to reform reproduction to transform both individual bodies and the body politic Across the political spectrum people insisted that regulating reproduction was necessary and that limiting the population was essential to economic development This book investigates the often devastating implications of this logic which demonized some women's reproduction as the cause of national and planetary catastrophe To tell this story Sreenivas explores debates about marriage family and contraception She also demonstrates how concerns about reproduction surfaced within a range of political questions about poverty and crises of subsistence migration and claims of national sovereignty normative heterosexuality and drives for economic development Locating India at the center of transnational historical change this book suggests that Indian developments produced the very grounds over which reproduction was called into question in the modern world The open access edition of Reproductive Politics and the Making of Modern India is freely available thanks to the TOME initiative and the generous support of The Ohio State University Libraries DOI 10.6069/9780295748856

Jeffery,1997-07-13 Roger and Patricia Jeffery are well known for their work on religion and gender in South Asia In their latest book a study of the demographic processes of two castes in rural north India they ask why fertility levels are higher among the Muslim Sheikhs than the Hindu Jats They conclude that explanations can only partially be attributed to gender relationships and religion and it is the economic and political interests of both groups which are the defining factors Their marginal economic position provides little incentive for the Sheikhs to raise small families while the Jats who are locally dominant are encouraged to use birth control and educate their children The authors go on to demonstrate the significance of this analysis for a wider understanding of the problems of population and politics in India generally The book will be

Sociological literature tends to view the social categories of race class and gender as distinct and has avoided discussing how multiple intersections inform and contribute to experiences of injustice and inequity This limited focus is clearly inadequate Systemic Crises of Global Climate Change is an edited volume of 49 international interdisciplinary contributions addressing global climate change GCC by intentionally engaging with the issues of race gender and class through an intersectional lens The volume challenges and inspires readers to foster new theoretical and practical linkages and think beyond the traditional and oftentimes reductionist environmental science frame by examining issues within their turbulent political cultural and personal landscapes Varied media and writing styles invite students and educators to reflexively engage different yet complementary approaches to GCC analysis and interpretation mirroring the disparate voices and viewpoints within the field. The second volume Emergent Possibilities for Sustainability will take a similar approach but will examine the possibilities for solutions as in the quest for global sustainability. This book is a valuable resource for academics, researchers, and both undergraduate and postgraduate students in the areas of Environmental Studies, Climate Change, Gender Studies, and International studies, as well as those seeking a more intersectional analysis of GCC.

The Politics of Replacement Sarah Bracke, Luis Manuel Hernández Aguilar, 2023-12-01. The Politics of Replacement explores current demographic conspiracy theories and their entanglement with different forms of racism and exclusionary politics such as sexism. The book focuses on population replacement conspiracy theories that is those imaginaries and discourses centered on the idea that the national population is under threat of being overtaken or even wiped out by those considered as alien to the nation and that this is the result of concerted efforts by elites. Replacement conspiracy theories are on the rise again from Eurabia fantasies to Renaud Camus' The Great Replacement. White supremacist discourses are thriving and increasingly broadcasting in mainstream venues. To account for their rise and spread, this edited volume brings together research on various dimensions of population replacement conspiracy theories: different theoretical and methodological approaches; different social, scientific, and humanities inter-disciplinary backgrounds; different geographical case studies across Europe, North America, Southeast Asia, and Oceania; different time periods: medieval archives, colonial archives, Nazi archives, postcolonial migrations post 9/11, and different forms of racialization and racisms: Islamophobia, antisemitism, racism against migrants and refugees. It also explores the entanglement of population replacement discourse with gendered violence. The book is organized into four sections: 1. exploring the historical background of the current rise of demographic conspiracy theories; 2. tracing the neoliberal governmentalities in and through which replacement discourse operates; 3. analyzing the particularly intense focus on the threat of Muslims in contemporary replacement conspiracy theories; and 4. investigating the connection between replacement conspiracies, gender, and violence. This title is essential reading for scholars, journalists, and activists interested in the contemporary far right conspiracy theories and racisms.

Legal Thoughts between the East and the West in the Multilevel Legal Order Chang-fa Lo, Nigel N.T. Li, Tsai-yu Lin, 2016-11-11. This book focuses on the interaction and mutual influences between the East and the West in terms of their legal systems and practices. In this regard, it highlights Professor Herbert H. P. Ma's achievements and his efforts to bring Eastern and Western legal concepts and systems closer together. The book shows that while there have been convergences between different legal regimes in many fields of law, diverse legal practices and approaches rooted in differing cultural, social, political, and philosophical backgrounds do remain, and that these differences are not necessarily negative elements in the contemporary legal order. By examining different levels of the legal order, including domestic, regional, and multilateral, it goes on to argue that identifying these diversities and addressing the interactions and mutual influences between different regimes is a worthwhile undertaking, not only in terms of mutual enrichment but also with regard to intensifying the degree of desirable coordination between different legal systems All chapters were written by leading experts practitioners and scholars from different jurisdictions with expertise in various fields of law and different levels of the legal order and discuss a number of issues with particular focus on either one way or mutual influences between the Eastern and the Western legal systems practices and philosophies

Virtually Lost Garry Robson, 2023-05-16. This book examines the connections between the psycho-social difficulties and challenges faced by children and younger people in their online lives, the structure, character and motivations of the corporate system behind the screen and the possibility that the digital technostructure may come to form the backbone of a new post-democratic system of technocratic governance. Much of the originality of this book lies in its blending of subjects that are not often combined, thereby offering a fresh perspective. Generation studies, the philosophy of technology, the history of the idea of technocracy, the technologically enhanced merger of corporate governmental power in the US system, the society-shaping goals and capabilities of the big tax-exempt American foundations over the last hundred years, the elite superclass gaming of formally constituted transnational and global institutions and the way the United Nations-centred SDG/ESG system is itself developing in the direction of a technocratic system of economic and population management. The book will appeal to readers interested in relationships between our contemporary global power elite, the structures it has created and processes it has set in motion and how these affect young people whose development is already being over-determined by the activities of the big Silicon Valley entities and their associates.
