Research And Technological Innovation The Challenge For A New Europe:

Research and Technological Innovation Marco Fortis, 2005-08-19 To explain the importance of scientific research and technological innovation for industrial countries and in particular for the EU in order to improve or to maintain economic leadership is the central idea of this volume. It starts with a historical and theoretical perspective on scientific technological innovation and its importance for industrial growth. Then it analyzes EU policy framework and strategies for R D and it presents several national success stories both from EU and non EU countries to confirm the theoretical perspective.

Resources, Production and Structural Dynamics Mauro L. Baranzini, Claudia Rotondi, Roberto Scazzieri, 2015-04-30 Economists since the First Industrial Revolution have been interested in the links between economic growth and resources, often pointing to resource scarcities as a hindrance to growth. Offering a counter perspective, this volume highlights the positive role that scarcities can play in inducing technical progress and economic growth. It outlines a structural framework for the political economy of scarcity and rents and offers a novel way of organizing the evidence concerning the role of resources in industrial growth. This book proposes a major shift in the treatment of scarcity issues by focusing on bottlenecks and opportunities arising within the production system and will appeal to economists and policy makers interested in the role of resources as triggers of structural change.

Industrial Clusters John F. Wilson, Chris Corker, Joe Lane, 2022-07-01 Industrial Clusters shows the latest state of knowledge on the topic of industrial clusters with a particular focus on clustering in the UK, bringing together a chronological coverage of the phenomenon. This set of original essays by a group of leading business and industrial historians offers fresh perspectives about clusters and clustering. A primary emphasis of the collection is how knowledge is generated and disseminated across a cluster and whether these processes stimulated innovation and consequently longer term sustainability. This analysis also prompts questions about which unit of analysis to examine: from the entrepreneurs and firms they created through to the industry as a whole and district in which they are located or whether one should look outside the region for explanatory factors. Covering regions as diverse as North Wales, the Scottish Highlands, the City of London, the Potteries, Sheffield and Lancashire, the essays have been channelled to provide a detailed understanding of these issues. The editors have also provided a challenging Conclusion that suggests a new research agenda that could well unravel some of the mysteries associated with clustering. This edited collection will be of interest to international researchers, academics and students in the fields of business and management history, innovation, industrialisation and clusters.

Campbell, 2011-12-02 Developed and developing economies alike face increased resource scarcity and competitive rivalry. In this context, science and technology appear as an essential source of competitive and sustainable advantage at national and regional levels. However, the key determinant of their efficacy is the quality and quantity of entrepreneurship-enabled innovation that unlocks and captures the benefits of the science enterprise in the form of private, public, or hybrid goods. Linking basic and applied research with the market via technology transfer and commercialization mechanisms, including government-university-industry partnerships and capital investments, constitutes the essential trigger mechanism and driving force of sustainable competitive advantage and prosperity. In this volume, the authors define the terms and principles of knowledge creation, diffusion, and use and establish a theoretical framework for their study. In particular, they focus on the Quadruple Helix model through which government, academia, industry, and civil society are seen as key actors promoting a democratic approach to innovation through which strategy development and decision making are exposed to feedback from key stakeholders, resulting in socially accountable policies and practices.
