Research Racism In Education Set Politics Theory And Practice:

Rationing Education David Gillborn, Deborah Youdell, 1999-12-16 This research should make us extremely sceptical that the constant search for higher standards and for ever increasing achievement scores can do much more than put in place seemingly neutral devices for restratification Michael W Apple John Bascom Professor of Curriculum and Instruction and Educational Policy Studies University of Wisconsin Madison Recent educational reforms have raised standards of achievement but have also resulted in growing inequalities based on race and social class School by school league tables play a central role in the reforms These have created an A to C economy where schools and teachers are judged on the proportion of students attaining five or more grades at levels A to C To satisfy these demands schools are embracing new and ever more selective attempts to identify ability Their assumptions and practices embody a new IQism a simple narrow and regressive ideology of intelligence that labels working class and minority students as likely failures and justifies rationing provision to support those often white middle class boys already marked for success This book reports detailed research in two secondary schools showing the real costs of reform in terms of the pressures on teachers and the rationing of educational opportunity It will be important reading for any teacher researcher or policymaker with an interest in equality in education Race, Culture, and Politics in Education

Kogila Moodley, 2020-12-04 Through her far ranging autobiography Kogila Moodley provides readers with a detailed glimpse of how she managed as a person of color amid divided societies from Apartheid South Africa to anti Semitism in Europe and sectarian conflict in the Middle East Moodley s message to readers is to find ways to combat oppression and racism in order to foster a more interconnected world Failing Boys? Debbie

Epstein, 1998-11-16 Failing Boys Issues in Gender and Achievement challenges the widespread perception that all boys are underachieving at school It raises the more important and critical questions of which boys At what stage of education And according to what criteria The issues surrounding boys underachievement have been at the centre of public debate about education and the raising of standards in recent years Media and political responses to the problem of boys have tended to be simplistic partial and owe more to quick fixes than investigation and research Failing Boys provides a detailed and nuanced case study of the issues in the UK which will be of international relevance as the moral panic is a globalised one taking place in diverse countries The contributors to this book take seriously the issues of boys underachievement inside and outside school from a critical perspective which draws on the insights of previous feminist studies of education to illuminate the problems associated with the education of boys This will be a key text for educators policy makers students and teachers of education sociology gender studies and cultural studies and others interested in gender and achievement Theory and Practice of Adult and Higher Education

Victor C.X. Wang, 2016-10-01 A volume on Theory and Practice of Adult and Higher Education or Foundations of Adult and Higher Education will appeal to both our graduate students and faculty as so many of them have been taking courses in both program areas and have been concerned with their defined areas of expertise

Although theories and practices in Adult Education and in Higher Education are being used interchangeably there is a lack of scholarly work that connects existing theories and practices across the two fields The proposed ground breaking volume will cover topics theories practices in both fields of Adult Education and of Higher Education and in doing so will bring to the fore the connections that make these two fields truly inseparable The proposed volume will therefore generate new knowledge to share among faculty graduate students and other researchers who practice not only in Adult Education but also in Higher Education

Political Science in Europe Thibaud Boncourt, Isabelle Engeli, Diego

Garzia, 2020-05-28 The last half century has been a defining period for the development of political science in Europe. Disciplinary norms have become institutionalized in professional organizations, training units, and research centres. The scholarly community has dramatically grown in size across the continent. The analytical and methodological tools of the discipline are increasingly sophisticated, and the knowledge disseminated under the label political science is bigger than it has ever been. Political Science in Europe takes stock of these developments and reflects on the achievements of the discipline and the challenges it faces. Is there a distinctive European blend of political science? Is the European political science community cohesive and inclusive? How does the discipline cope with the neoliberalisation of academia and the diffusion of illiberal politics? Leading and up-and-coming political scientists answer these questions by discussing the discipline's key concepts and intellectual trends, its professional structures, and its relationship with its social, economic, and political environment.
