Research Traditions In Marketing:

Research traditions in marketing Gilles Laurent, Gary L. Lilien, Bernard Pras, 2012-12-06 Divergence A Source of Creative Thinking The outstanding job accomplished by Bernard Gary and Gilles is really praiseworthy not only did they succeed in completing within a remarkably short span of time the editing of the contributions to the conference that marked the 20th Anniversary of the European Institute for Advanced Studies in Management they have also managed to elicit numerous insightful comments from a host of dashing young scholars as well as from the fortunate few established authorities whose findings have long become leading articles in the best academic journals who now chair those journals editorial boards and after whom great scientific awards have been named In so doing our dedicated triumvirate has blended together pieces of diverse research traditions some of them quite puzzling and mixed significantly differentiated styles of expression The controversial display of self confidence by some distinguished colleagues the amazingly emotional good old memories revived by their peers the scapegoat finding and moralizing confessions produced by some of their disciples together with the detached systematic rigidity of some others all combine to produce a multivarious patchwork that may well prove the existence of a marketing scholar lifecycle This cartoon like four class typology might even make it worth the reader's while to indulge in some guesswork to discover the sequence of the four stages as an exercise and then partition the author population accordingly Research Traditions in Marketing Kristian Möller, 1992 The SAGE Handbook of Marketing Theory Pauline Maclaran, Michael Saren, Barbara Stern, Mark Tadajewski, 2009-12-04 Bringing together the latest debates concerning the development of marketing theory featuring original contributions from a selection of leading international authors this collection aims to give greater conceptual cohesion to the field by drawing together the many disparate perspectives and presenting them in one volume The contributors are all leading international scholars chosen to represent the intellectual diversity within marketing theory Divided into six parts the Handbook covers the historical development of marketing theory its philosophical underpinnings major theoretical debates the impact of theory on representations of the consumer the impact of theory on representations of the marketing organisation and contemporary issues in marketing theory Rethinking Marketing Douglas Brownlie, 1999-03-23 This is an important text It brings together critical reflections on the discipline's contribution in terms of theory practice and pedagogy and as such is equally as insightful and challenging as some of its recent predecessors eg Brown et al 1996 Brown and Turley 1997 Brown 1998 The book represents a useful point of departure for those setting off on their own critical journeys and thus it should be included on the reading lists of all those carrying out masters or doctoral research in marketing Journal of Marketing Management This book provides a challenging and stimulating coverage of a broad range of key issues in contemporary marketing such as marketing philosophy marketing ethics the mar The Routledge Companion to Marketing History D.G. Brian Jones, Mark Tadajewski, 2016-01-29 The Routledge Companion to Marketing History is the first collection of readings that surveys the broader field of marketing history including the key activities and practices in the marketing process With contributors from leading international scholars working in marketing history this companion provides nine country specific histories of marketing practice as well as a broad analysis of the field including the histories of advertising retailing channels of distribution product design and branding pricing strategies and consumption behavior While other collections have provided an overview of the history of marketing thought this is the first of its kind to do so from the perspective of companies industries and even whole economies The Routledge Companion to Marketing History ranges across many countries and industries engaging in substantive detail with marketing practices as they were performed in a variety of historical periods extending back to ancient times It is not to be missed by any historian or student of business

Building Models for Marketing Decisions Peter S.H. Leeflang, Dick R. Wittink, Michel Wedel, Philippe A. Naert, 2013-06-29 This book is about marketing models and the process of model building Our primary focus is on models that can be used by managers to support marketing decisions It has long been known that simple models usually outperform judgments in predicting outcomes in a wide variety of contexts For example models of judgments tend to provide better forecasts of the outcomes than the judgments themselves because the model eliminates the noise in judgments And since judgments never fully reflect the complexities of the many forces that influence outcomes it is easy to see why models of actual outcomes should be very attractive to marketing decision makers Thus appropriately constructed models can provide insights about structural relations between marketing variables Since models explicate the relations both the process of model building and the model that ultimately results can improve the quality of marketing decisions Managers often use rules of thumb for decisions For example a brand manager will have defined a specific set of alternative brands as the competitive set within a product category Usually this set is based on perceived similarities in brand characteristics advertising messages etc If a new marketing initiative occurs for one of the other brands the brand manager will have a strong inclination to react The reaction is partly based on the manager's desire to maintain some competitive parity in the marketing variables
