Organizing Rural Women Margaret Kechnie, 2003 In Organizing Rural Women Margaret Kechnie looks at the history of the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario popularly known as the Women's Institutes WI from the time the first branch was formed at Stoney Creek in 1897 until federation in 1919 Kechnie challenges the popular mythology that the WI began when Adelaide Hoodless called on farm women to organize and received an overwhelming response She reveals that Hoodless had little to do with founding the WI that early response to the organization was both disappointing and discouraging and that for the first thirty four years of its existence the WI was led by men who defined the constitution of the organization and set many of its policies Inequality in Canada Eric W. Sager, 2021-01-20 In Inequality in Canada Eric Sager considers one of the defining but hardest to define ideas of our era and traces its different meanings and contexts across the nineteenth and twentieth centuries Sager shows how the idea of inequality arose in the long evolution in Britain and the United States from classical economics to the emerging welfare economics of the twentieth century Within this transatlantic frame inequality took a distinct form in Canada different iterations of the idea appear in Protestant critiques of wealth labour movements farmer progressive politics the social gospel social Catholicism in Quebec English Canadian political economy and political and intellectual justifications of the social security state A tradition of idealist thought persisted in the twentieth century sustaining the idea of inequality despite deep silences among Canadian economists Sager argues that inequality goes beyond the distribution of income and wealth it is the idea that there are wide gaps between rich and poor that the gaps are both an economic problem and a social injustice and that when inequality appears it is as a problem that can be either eliminated or reduced It is precisely because inequality appears in different contexts and because it changes Sager reasons that we can begin to perceive the contours and cleavages of inequality in our time In our century a political solution to inequality may rest on the recovery of an ethical ideal and egalitarian politics that have long preoccupied the history of Canadian thought Studies in Social Progress in the Gospel of the Kingdom ,1913 The Presbyterian Church in Canada, 1875-1925 John Thomas McNeill,1925
