

Waning European Influence

- Americans wanted to produce unique American literature that could ‘compete’ with the literature coming out of Europe. Authors, poets, and philosophers attempted to create a uniquely American body of literature.
- Decades after independence from England, American intellectuals believed it was time for literary independence as well.
- And so they deliberately went about creating literature, essays, novels, philosophy, poetry, and other writing that were clearly different from anything produced in England, France, Germany, or other European nations.
- American writers tried new forms and new ideas for literature.
- They rejected the idea they had to follow European “rules.”

The First-Person Perspective and Other Essays Sydney Shoemaker, 1996-09-13

Sydney Shoemaker is one of the most influential philosophers currently writing on philosophy of mind and metaphysics. The essays in this collection deal with the way in which we know our own minds and with the nature of those mental states of which we have our most direct conscious awareness. Professor Shoemaker opposes the inner sense conception of introspective self knowledge. He defends the view that perceptual and sensory states have non representational features (qualia) that determine what it is like to have them. Amongst the other topics covered are the unity of consciousness and the idea that the first person perspective gives a privileged route to philosophical understanding of the nature of mind.
