Lost Horizon James Hilton,1957 From El Dorado to Lost Horizons Ken Windrum,2019-03-25 The era known as the Hollywood Renaissance is celebrated as a time when revolutionary movies broke all the rules of the previous classical era as part of the ferment of the late 1960s and early 1970s Yet many films during this era did not overtly smash the system but provided more traditional entertainment based on popular genres for a wider audience than the youth culture who flocked to more transgressive fare Ken Windrum focuses on four genres of traditionalist movies big budget musicals war spectacles naughty sex comedies and Westerns From El Dorado to Lost Horizons shows how even seemingly innocuous family oriented films still participated in the progressive aspects of the time while also holding a conservative point of view Windrum analyzes representations of issues including gender roles marriage sexuality civil rights and Cold War foreign policy revealing how these films dealt with changing times and reflected both status quo positions and new attitudes He also examines how the movies continued or deviated from classical principles of structure and style Windrum provides a counter history of the Hollywood Renaissance by focusing on a group of important films that have nevertheless been neglected in scholarly accounts

Frank Capra's Eastern Horizons Elizabeth Rawitsch, 2014-10-16 Frank Capra has long had a reputation as being the quintessential American director the man who perfectly captured the identity and core values of the United States with a string of classic films in the 1930s and 40s including It Happened One Night Mr Smith Goes to Washington and It's a Wonderful Life However as Elizabeth Rawitsch argues Capra's construction of national identity did not occur within an exclusively national context She points out that many of his films are actually set in or include sequences set in China Latin America the Philippines and the South Seas Featuring in depth textual analysis supported by original archival research Frank Capra's Eastern Horizons explains that Capra's view of what constituted America changed over time extending its boundaries to embrace countries often far from the United States Complicating Edward Said's theory of Orientalism as a strict binary in which the West constructs the East as an inferior other it demonstrates that East and West often intermingle in films such as The Bitter Tea of General Yen and in Capra's orientation documentaries for World War II American servicemen Capra imagined a kind of global community albeit one with heavy undertones of British and American
