The Hours Have Lost Their Clock Grafton Tanner, 2021-10-12 The Hours Have Lost Their Clock charts the rise of nostalgia in an era knocked out of time In The Hours Have Lost Their Clock Grafton Tanner charts the rise of nostalgia in an era knocked out of time Nostalgia is the defining emotion of our age Political leaders promise a return to yesteryear Old movies are remade and cancelled series are rebooted Veterans reenact past wars while the displaced across the world long for home But who is behind this collective ache for a home in the past Do we need to eliminate nostalgia or just cultivate it better And what is at stake if we make the wrong choice Moving from the fight over Confederate monuments to the birth of homeland security to the mourning of species extinction Grafton Tanner traces nostalgia's ascent in the twenty first century revealing its power as both a consequence of our unstable time and a defense against it With little faith in a future of climate change and economic anxiety many have turned to nostalgia to weather the present while powerful elites exploit it for their own gain An exploration into the politics of loss and yearning The Hours Have Lost Their Clock is an urgent call to take nostalgia seriously The very future depends on it

Eska, 2022-07-18 Charlene M Eska presents in this book a critical edition and translation of a newly discovered early Irish legal text on lost and stolen property Aibred Although the Old Irish text itself is fragmentary the copious accompanying commentaries provide a wealth of legal historical and linguistic information thus presenting us with a complete picture of the legal procedures involved in reclaiming missing property This book also includes editions of two other texts concerning property found on land Heptad 64 and at sea Muirbretha The three texts edited together provide a complete picture of this aspect of the early Irish legal system Futuristic Cars and Space Bicycles Jeremy Withers, 2020-06-04 Given the extensive influence of the transport revolution on the past two centuries a time when trains trams omnibuses bicycles cars airplanes and so forth were invented and given science fiction's overall obsession with machines and technologies of all kinds it is surprising that scholars have not paid more attention to transportation in this increasingly popular genre Futuristic Cars and Space Bicycles is the first book to examine the history of representations of road transport machines in nineteenth twentieth and twenty first century American science fiction The focus of this study is on two machines of the road that have been locked in a constant often bitter struggle with one another the automobile and the bicycle With chapters ranging from the early science fiction of the pulp magazine era in the 1920s and 1930s to the postcyberpunk of the 1990s and more recent media of the 2000s such as web television zines and comics this book argues that science fiction by and large perceives the car as anything but a marvelous invention of modernity Rather the genre often scorns and ridicules the automobile and instead promotes more sustainable more benign more restrained technologies of movement such as the bicycle Front Stoops in the Fifties Michael Olesker, 2021-04-27 This personal history of prominent Baltimoreans sheds light on the social transformations already taking place in the supposedly innocent 1950s Front Stoops in the Fifties recounts the stories of some of Baltimore's most famous personalities as they grew up during the decade of conformity just before they entered the turbulent 1960s. Focusing on the period before JFK's assassination, Olesker looks to individuals who would go on to influence the brewing cultural revolution. Such familiar names as Jerry Leiber, Nancy Pelosi, Thurgood Marshall, and Barry Levinson figure prominently in Michael Olesker's fascinating account, which draws on personal interviews and journalistic research. Olesker tells the story of Nancy D'Alessandro Pelosi, daughter of the mayor who grew up in a political home and eventually became the first woman Speaker of the House. Thurgood Marshall, schooled in a racially segregated classroom, went on to argue Brown v. Board of Education of Topeka before the U.S. Supreme Court and rewrite race relations law. These and many other stories come to life in Front Stoops in the Fifties. A fascinating read. The shocking part is just how relevant these stories remain today. Baltimore Post Examiner. A crisp, insightful dispatch from a skilled writer who knows his city and its history. David Simon, executive producer of HBO's The Wire.

Rural Worlds Lost Jack Temple Kirby, 1986-12-01. Immediately following the Civil War and for many years thereafter, southerners proclaimed a New South, implying not only the end of slavery but also the beginning of a new era of growth, industrialization, and prosperity. Time has shown that those declarations, at least in terms of progress and prosperity, were premature by several decades. Life for an Alabama tenant farmer in 1920 did not differ significantly from the life his grandfather led fifty years earlier. In fact, the South remained primarily a land of poor farming folks until the 1940s. Only then, and after World War II, did the real New South of industrial growth and urban development begin to emerge. Jack Temple Kirby's massive and engaging study examines the rural southern world of the first half of this century, its collapse, and the resulting modernization of southern society. The American South was the last region of the Western world to undergo this process, and Rural Worlds Lost is the first book to so thoroughly assess the profound changes modernization has wrought. Kirby painstakingly charts the structural changes in agriculture that have occurred in the South and the effects these changes have had on people both at work and in the community. He is quick to note that there is not just one South but many, emphasizing the South's diversity not only in terms of race but also in terms of crop type and topography and the resultant cultural differences of various areas of the region. He also skillfully compares southern life and institutions with those in other parts of the country, noting discrepancies and similarities. Perhaps even more significant, however, is Kirby's focus on the lives and communities of ordinary people and how they have been transformed by the effects of modernization. By using the oral histories collected by WPA interviewers, Kirby shows firsthand how rural southerners lived in the 1930s and what forces shaped their views on life. He assesses the impact of cash upon traditional rural economies, the revolutionary effects of New Deal programs on the rich and poor, and the forms and cultural results of migration. Kirby also treats home life, recording attitudes toward marriage and sex, health, maintenance, and class relationships, not to mention sports and leisure, moonshining, and the southerner's longstanding love-hate relationship with the mule. Rural Worlds Lost based on exceptionally extensive research in archives throughout the South and in federal agricultural censuses definitively charts the enormous changes that have taken place in the South in this century Writing about Kirby s previous book Media Made Dixie Time Magazine noted Kirby s scholarship of rare lucidity That same high level of scholarship as well as an undeniable affection for the region is abundantly evident in this new path breaking book Fifty Years in Theatrical Management Michael Bennett Leavitt,1912 The Sacred Nugget Benjamin Leopold Farjeon,1885 Reminiscences of Fifty Years' Residence in Western Australia J.
