

The book cover features a vertical split illustration. The left half shows a misty, layered landscape with distant mountains and a body of water. The right half shows a more detailed scene with a steep, rocky mountain slope, a small village with traditional houses, and a river or path leading towards the mountains. The overall style is reminiscent of traditional East Asian ink wash painting.

fewer have told the story of the formation of Korea's contemporary cultural scene and the role artists have played in it. This richly illustrated history tackles these issues exploring Korean art from the late nineteenth century to the present day, a period that has seen enormous political, social, and economic change. Charlotte Horlyck covers the critical and revolutionary period that stretches from Korean artists' first encounters with oil paintings in the late nineteenth century to the varied and vibrant creative outputs of the twenty-first. She explores artists' interpretations of new and traditional art forms ranging from oil and ink paintings to video art, multi-media installations, ready-mades, and performance art, showing how artists at every turn have questioned the role of art and artists within society. Opening up this fascinating world to general audiences, this book will appeal to anyone wanting to explore this rich and fascinating era in Korea's cultural history. Epistolary Korea JaHyun Kim Haboush, 2009-04-14. By expanding the definition of epistle to include any writing that addresses the intended receiver directly, JaHyun Kim Haboush introduces readers to the rich epistolary practice of Chosŏn Korea. The Chosŏn dynasty (1392-1910) produced an abundance of epistolar writings that mirror the genres of neighboring countries, especially China, while retaining their own specific historical trajectory. Written in both literary Chinese and vernacular Korean, the writings collected here range from royal public edicts to private letters, a fascinating array that blurs the line between classical and everyday language and the divisions between men and women. Haboush's selections also recast the relationship between epistolography and the concept of public and private space. Haboush groups her epistles according to where they were written and read: public letters, letters to colleagues and friends, social letters, and family letters. Then she arranges them according to occasion: letters on leaving home, deathbed letters, letters of fiction, and letters to the dead. She examines the mechanics of epistles, their communicative space, and their cultural and political meaning. With its wholly unique collection of materials, Epistolary Korea produces more than a vivid chronicle of pre- and early modern Korean life. It breaks new ground in establishing the terms of a distinct non-European form of epistolography. The Journal of Korean Studies, 1979. A History of Korea Kyung Moon Hwang, 2021-11-30. Dynamic and meticulously researched, A History of Korea continues to be one of the leading introductory textbooks on Korean history. Assuming no prior knowledge, Hwang guides readers from early state formation and the dynastic eras to the modern experience in both North and South Korea. Structured around episodic accounts, each chapter begins by discussing a defining moment in Korean history in context, with an extensive examination of how the events and themes under consideration have been viewed up to the present day. By engaging with recurring themes such as collective identity, external influence, social hierarchy, family, and gender, the author introduces the major historical events, patterns, and debates that have shaped both North and South Korea over the past 1500 years. This textbook is essential reading for undergraduate and postgraduate students of Korean or Asian history. The first half of the book covers pre-20th century history, and the second half the modern era, making it ideal for survey courses. Eco-Art History in East and Southeast Asia De-nin D. Lee, 2019-01-29. The essays in this anthology examine artwork and sites in East and Southeast Asia through the lens of eco art history In these regions significant anthropogenic changes to terrain watercourses and ecosystems date back millennia as do artwork and artefacts that both conceptualize and modify the natural world The rising interest in earth conscious modes of analysis or eco art history informs this anthology which explores the mutual impact of artistic expressions and local environments in East and Southeast Asia Moreover conceptual tools and case studies focused on these regions impart important insights bearing on the development of eco art history The book includes case studies examining the impact of the Little Ice Age on court painting and systems of representing marine life in the Joseon period in Korea Other contributors consider contemporary artistic strategies such as developing a sustainability aesthetics and focusing attention to non human agents to respond to environmental damage and climate change in the present Additional essays analyse the complicated art historical ecology of heritage sites and question the underlying anthropocentrism in art historical priorities and practices As a whole this anthology argues for the importance of ecological considerations in art history

A New Middle Kingdom J. P. Park, 2018-10-09 Historians have claimed that when social stability returned to Korea after devastating invasions by the Japanese and Manchus around the turn of the seventeenth century the late Chos n dynasty was a period of unprecedented economic and cultural renaissance in which prosperity manifested itself in new programs and styles of visual art A New Middle Kingdom questions this belief claiming instead that true view landscape and genre paintings were likely adopted to propagandize social harmony under Chos n rule and to justify the status wealth and land grabs of the ruling class This book also documents the popularity of art books from China and their misunderstanding by Koreans and most controversially Korean enthusiasm for artistic programs from Edo Japan thus challenging academic stereotypes and nationalistic tendencies in the scholarship about the Chos n period As the first truly interdisciplinary study of Korean art A New Middle Kingdom points to realities of late Chos n society that its visual art seemed to hide and deny A William Sangki and Nanhee Min Hahn Book
