Car Builders' Dictionary ,1925 Definitions and typical illustrations of railroads and industrial cars their parts and equipment cars built in America for export to foreign countries descriptions and illustrations of shops and equipment employed in the construction and repair of cars Paint, Oil and Drug Review ,1918 The Painter and Decorator ,1914

Pigments Barbara H. Berrie, Caroline Fowler, Karin Leonhard, Ittai Weinryb, 2024-06-04 A concise illustrated history of one of art's most important and elusive elements Over the millennia humans have used pigments to decorate narrate and instruct Charred bone ground earth stones bugs and blood were the first pigments New pigments were manufactured by simple processes such as corrosion and calcination until the Industrial Revolution introduced colors outside the spectrum of the natural world Pigments brings together leading art historians and conservators to trace the history of the materials used to create color and their invention across diverse cultures and time periods This richly illustrated book features incisive historical essays and case studies that shed light on the many forms of pigments the organic and inorganic the edible and the toxic and those that are more precious than gold It shows how pigments were as central to the earliest art forms and global trade networks as they are to commerce ornamentation and artistic expression today The book reveals the innate instability and mutability of most pigments and discusses how few artworks or objects look as they did when they were first created From cave paintings to contemporary art Pigments demonstrates how a material understanding of color opens new perspectives on visual culture and the history of art Painting Materials R. J. Gettens, G. L. Stout, 2012-09-26 The combined training and experience of the authors of this classic in the varied activities of painting conservation cultural research chemistry physics and paint technology ideally suited them to the task they attempted Their book written when they were both affiliated with the Department of Conservation at Harvard's Fogg Art Museum is not a handbook of instruction. It is instead an encyclopedic collection of specialized data on every aspect of painting and painting research. The book is divided into five sections: Mediums (Adhesives and Film Substances: amber, beeswax, casein, cellulose nitrate, dragon's blood, egg, tempera, paraffin, lacquer, gum Arabic, Strasbourg turpentine, water glass, etc.); Pigments and Inert Materials (over 100 entries from alizarin to zinnobor green); Solvents, Diluents, and Detergents (acetone, ammonia, carbon tetrachloride, soap, water, etc.); Supports (academy board, dozens of different woods, esparto grass, gesso, glass, leather, plaster, silk, vellum, etc.); and Tools and Equipment. Coverage within each section is exhaustive. Thirteen pages are devoted to items related to linseed oil; eleven to the history and physical and chemical properties of pigments; two to artificial ultramarine blue; eleven to wood; and so on, with hundreds of entries. Much of the information (physical behavior, earliest known use, chemical composition, history of synthesis, refractive index, etc.) is difficult to find elsewhere. The rest was drawn from such a wide range of fields and from such a long span of time that the book was immediately hailed as the best organized, most accessible work of its kind. That reputation hasn't changed. The author's new preface lists some recent discoveries regarding pigments and other materials, and the pigment composition chart has been revised, but the text remains essentially unchanged. It is still invaluable not only for museum curators and conservators for whom it was designed, but for painters themselves and for teachers and students as well.
