 Bleichmar,2017-01-01 An unprecedented visual exploration of the intertwined histories of art and science of the old world and the new From the voyages of Christopher Columbus to those of Alexander von Humboldt and Charles Darwin the depiction of the natural world played a central role in shaping how people on both sides of the Atlantic understood and imaged the region we now know as Latin America Nature provided incentives for exploration commodities for trade specimens for scientific investigation and manifestations of divine forces It also yielded a rich trove of representations created both by natives to the region and visitors which are the subject of this lushly illustrated book Author Daniela Bleichmar shows that these images were not only works of art but also instruments for the production of knowledge with scientific social and political repercussions Early depictions of Latin American nature introduced European audiences to native medicines and religious practices By the 17th century revelatory accounts of tobacco chocolate and cochineal reshaped science trade and empire around the globe In the 18th and 19th centuries collections and scientific expeditions produced both patriotic and imperial visions of Latin America Through an interdisciplinary examination of more than 150
