Photographs Xiaoyan Zhang, Martin Constable, Kap Luk Chan, Jinze Yu, Wang Junyan, 2017-07-18 This book examines paintings using a computational and quantitative approach. Specifically, it compares paintings to photographs, addressing the strengths and limitations of both. Particular aesthetic practices are examined, such as the vista foreground to background organisation and the depth planes. These are analysed using a range of computational approaches, and clear observations are made. New generations of image capture devices, such as Google goggles and the light field camera, promise a future in which the formal attributes of a photograph are made available for editing to a degree that has hitherto been the exclusive territory of painting. In this sense, paintings and photographs are converging, and it therefore seems an opportune time to study the comparisons between them. In this context, the book includes cutting edge work examining how some of the aesthetic attributes of a painting can be transferred to a photograph using the latest computational approaches. Foucault on Painting Catherine M. Soussloff, 2017-11-23 Michel Foucault had been concerned about painting and the meaning of the image from his earliest publications, yet this aspect of his thought is largely neglected within the disciplines of art history and aesthetic theory. In Foucault on Painting, Catherine M. Soussloff argues that Foucault's sustained engagement with European art history critically addresses present concerns about the mediated nature of the image in the digital age. Foucault's writing on painting covers four discrete periods in European art history: seventeenth century southern Baroque, mid nineteenth century French painting, Surrealism, and figurative painting in the 1960s and 70s, as well as five individual artists: Velázquez, Manet, Magritte, Paul Reyberolle, and Gerard Fromanger. As Soussloff reveals in this book, Foucault followed a French intellectual tradition dating back to the seventeenth century which understands painting as a separate area of knowledge. Painting, a practice long considered silent in its operations and effects, afforded Foucault an ideal discipline to think about history and philosophy simultaneously. Using a comparative approach grounded in art history and aesthetics, Soussloff explores the meaning of painting for Foucault's philosophy and for contemporary art theory, proposing a new relevance for a Foucauldian view of ethics and the pleasures and predicaments of contemporary existence. Exports Declared for the United States United States. Abel, Thomas Harrison Cummings, Wilfred A. French, A. H. Beardsley, 1914 A Hunger for Aesthetics Michael Kelly, 2012 This title examines the motivations for the critiques that have been applied to the idea of aesthetics and argues that theorists and artists now hunger for a new kind of aesthetics, one better calibrated to contemporary art and its moral and political demands. The book shows how, for decades, aesthetic critiques have often concerned art's treatment of beauty or the autonomy of art. Collectively, these critiques have generated an anti-aesthetic stance that is now prevalent in the contemporary art world. Computer Vision - ECCV 2016 Workshops Gang Hua, Hervé Jégou, 2016-09-17 The three volume set LNCS 9913, LNCS 9914, and LNCS 9915 comprises the refereed proceedings of the Workshops that took place in conjunction with the 14th European Conference on
