Paleoenvironments In The Namib Desert:

Paleoenvironments in the Namib Desert M. Justin Wilkinson, 1990 Palaeoecology of Africa, volume 16 J.A. Coetzee, E.M. van Zinderen Bakker, 2022-03-24 This text gives an environmental history of Africa concentrating on 30 contributions on oceans and ocean margins the Sahara and West Africa Geologie Et Palaeobiologie Du Desert Du Namib, Afrique Du Sud-ouest Martin Pickford, Brigitte Senut, 2000 Aeolian Sand and Sand Dunes, 2008-11-14 It is more than half a century since the publication of R A Bagnold's classic book The physics of blown sand and desert dunes and it is a tribute to the quality of Bagnold's work that many of the fundamental principles which he developed remain valid today. His book continues to be essential reading for any serious student of aeolian processes. However the past two decades have seen an explosion in the scale of research dealing with aeolian transport processes, sediments and landforms. Some of this work has been summarized in review papers and edited conference proceedings but this book provides the first attempt to review the whole field of aeolian sand research. Inevitably it has not been possible to cover all aspects in equal depth and the balance of included material naturally reflects the authors' own interests to a significant degree. However our aim has been to provide as broad a perspective as possible and to provide an entry point to an extensive multidisciplinary scientific literature, some of which has not been given the attention it deserves in earlier textbooks and review papers. Many examples are drawn from existing published work but the book also makes extensive use of our own research in the Middle East, Australia, Europe and North America. The book has been written principally for use by advanced undergraduates, postgraduates and more senior research workers in geomorphology and sedimentology. The Geology of Namibia: Upper palaeozoic to cenozoic R. McG. Miller, 2008 Quaternary Environmental Change in Southern Africa Jasper Knight, Stefan W. Grab, 2016-06-23

Ongoing climate change necessitates advances in our understanding of the interrelationships between climate, landscape shaping processes and human activity over long time periods, especially in areas that are already climatically stressed. This volume presents new ideas on macroscale landscape evolution, mountain, fluvial and aeolian processes and environments in southern Africa, a key region in the story of human evolution during the last two million years. Interdisciplinary in scope, it brings together an international team of experts to synthesise the latest research and understanding of landscape-human relationships in this region. It incorporates results from the emerging fields of geoarchaeology and cultural landscapes and utilises the latest data and analytical techniques. A key reference for researchers studying hominid evolution, geoarchaeology and environmental change, it provides a benchmark study of southern African landscape evolution during the Quaternary. It will also appeal to professionals and policymakers with interests in future human landscape evolution in southern Africa.

Model Ecosystems in Extreme Environments, 2019-05-29 Model Ecosystems in Extreme Environments Second Edition examines ecosystems at the most extreme habitats and their interaction with the environment, providing a key element in our understanding of the role and function of microorganisms in nature. The book highlights current topics in the field such as biodiversity and the structure of microbial communities in extreme environments the effects of extreme environmental conditions on microbial ecosystems and ecological and evolutionary interactions in extreme environments among other topics It will be a valuable text for faculty and students working with extremophiles and or microbial ecology and researchers including astrobiologists biologists evolutionary scientists astronomers geochemists and oceanographers Explores in detail how microbial ecosystems thrive in extreme environments Highlights the relevance of extremophiles as model ecosystems to the study of microbial ecology Examines how extreme ecosystems can help our search for life on other planets

Palaeoecology of Quaternary Drylands Werner Smykatz-Kloss, 2004-02-20 The twelve contributions in this volume represent the results of a ten year interdisciplinary workshop on desert margins concerned with the geomorphological geochemical mineralogical sedimentological soil scientific characterisation of semi deserts in Spain Africa Arabia and China Desert sediments and soils as well as processes and characteristics of their formation are regarded from different geoscientific perspectives The subjects of research include the development of desert soils and landscapes the formation of alluvial loess swamp ores fulgurites and floodout sediments and focus on the reconstruction of palaeoecological events and changes A critical study of dating methods rounds off the book

Calvinists Incorporated Anne Kelly Knowles, 1997-02 Bringing immigrants onstage as central players in the drama of rural capitalist transformation Anne Kelly Knowles traces a community of Welsh immigrants to Jackson and Gallia counties in southern Ohio After reconstructing the gradual process of community building Knowles focuses on the pivotal moment when the immigrants became involved with the industrialization of their new region as workers and investors in Welsh owned charcoal iron companies Setting the southern Ohio Welsh in the context of Welsh immigration as a whole from 1795 to 1850 Knowles explores how these strict Calvinists responded to the moral dilemmas posed by leaving their native land and experiencing economic success in the United States Knowles draws on a wide variety of sources including obituaries and community histories to reconstruct the personal histories of over 1 700 immigrants The resulting account will find appreciative readers not only among historical geographers but also among American economic historians and historians of religion

The Politics of Planting Shaul Ephraim Cohen, 1993-06 On the open landscape of Israel and the West Bank where pine and cypress forests grow alongside olive groves tree planting has become symbolic of conflicting claims to the land Palestinians cultivate olive groves as a vital agricultural resource while the Israeli government has made restoration of mixed growth forests a national priority Although both sides plant for a variety of purposes both have used tree planting to assert their presence on and claim to disputed land Shaul Ephraim Cohen has conducted an unprecedented study of planting in the region and the control of land it signifies In The Politics of Planting he provides historical background and examines both the politics behind Israel's afforestation policy its consequences Focusing on the open land surrounding Jerusalem and four Palestinian villages outside the city this study offers a new perspective on the conflict over land use in a region where planting has become a political tool For the valuable data it presents collected from field work previously unpublished documents and interviews and the insight it provides into this political struggle this will be an important book for anyone studying the Israeli Palestinian conflict

Dividing the Land Edward T. Price, 1995-04-15 Many property lines drawn in early America still survive today and continue to shape the landscape and character of the United States Surprisingly though no one until now has thoroughly examined the process by which land was divided into private property and distributed to settlers from the beginning of colonization to early nationhood In this unprecedented study Edward T Price covers most areas of the United States in which the initial division of land was controlled by colonial governments the original thirteen colonies and Maine Vermont Kentucky West Virginia Tennessee Louisiana and Texas By examining different land policies and the irregular pattern of property that resulted from them Price chronicles the many ways colonies managed land to promote settlement develop agriculture defend frontiers and attract investment His analysis reveals as much about land planning techniques carried to America from Europe as innovations spurred by the unique circumstances of the new world Price's analysis draws on his thorough survey of property records from the first land plans in Virginia in 1607 to empresario grants in Texas in the 1820s This breadth of data allows him to identify regional differences in allocating land assess the impact of land planning by historical figures like William Penn of Pennsylvania and Lord Baltimore of Maryland and trace changes in patterns of land division and ownership through transfers of power among Britain the Netherlands France Spain Mexico and the Republic of Texas

Treatise on Geomorphology, 2013-02-27 The changing focus and approach of geomorphic research suggests that the time is opportune for a summary of the state of discipline The number of peer reviewed papers published in geomorphic journals has grown steadily for more than two decades and more importantly the diversity of authors with respect to geographic location and disciplinary background geography geology ecology civil engineering computer science geographic information science and others has expanded dramatically As more good minds are drawn to geomorphology and the breadth of the peer reviewed literature grows an effective summary of contemporary geomorphic knowledge becomes increasingly difficult The fourteen volumes of this Treatise on Geomorphology will provide an important reference for users from undergraduate students looking for term paper topics to graduate students starting a literature review for their thesis work and professionals seeking a concise summary of a particular topic Information on the historical development of diverse topics within geomorphology provides context for ongoing research discussion of research strategies equipment and field methods laboratory experiments and numerical simulations reflect the multiple approaches to understanding Earth's surfaces and summaries of outstanding research questions highlight future challenges and suggest productive new avenues for research. Our future ability to adapt to geomorphic changes in the critical zone very much hinges upon how well landform scientists comprehend the dynamics of Earth's diverse surfaces. This Treatise on Geomorphology provides a useful synthesis of the state of the discipline as well as highlighting productive research directions that Educators and students/researchers will find useful. Geomorphology has advanced greatly in the last 10 years to become a very interdisciplinary field. Undergraduate students looking for term paper topics to graduate students starting a literature review for their thesis work and professionals seeking a concise summary of a particular topic will find the answers they need in this broad reference work which has been designed and written to accommodate their diverse backgrounds and levels of understanding. Editor in Chief Prof J F Shroder of the University of Nebraska at Omaha is past president of the QG/G section of the Geological Society of America and present Trustee of the GSA Foundation while being well respected in the geomorphology research community and having won numerous awards in the field. A host of noted international geomorphologists have contributed state-of-the-art chapters to the work. Readers can be guaranteed that every chapter in this extensive work has been critically reviewed for consistency and accuracy by the World expert Volume Editors and by the Editor in Chief himself. No other reference work exists in the area of Geomorphology that offers the breadth and depth of information contained in this 14 volume masterpiece. From the foundations and history of geomorphology through to geomorphological innovations and computer modelling and the past and future states of landform science, no stone has been left unturned.

Human Origins and Environmental Backgrounds Hidemi Ishida, Russell Tuttle, Martin Pickford, Naomichi Ogihara, Masato Nakatsukasa, 2006-10-12. Advances in fossil studies relating to the origin of Homo sapiens have strengthened the hypothesis that our direct ancestors originated on the African continent. Most researchers also agree that the time when prehumans diverged from the last common ancestor was in the early part of the Late Miocene epoch. Focus must now shift from determining the times and places of hominid origins to clarifying hominid evolutionary problems such as the selective factors and acquisition processes of hominid bipedalism. In March of 2003, researchers from Africa, Europe, Japan and the United States convened in Kyoto for a symposium on Human Origins and Environmental Backgrounds, an interdisciplinary effort to consider these evolutionary puzzles, to report current research and to exchange thoughts towards better understanding the relationship among environmental changes, adaptive mechanisms and human origins. This book is the result of that symposium and includes a diverse and unique set of papers on topics such as hominid evolution, dispersal and morphology and the origins of bipedalism.

Geomorphology of Desert Environments Anthony J. Parsons, A. D. Abrahams, 2009-03-20. About one third of the Earth's land surface experiences a desert climate and this area supports approximately 15% of the planet's population. This percentage continues to grow and with this growth comes the need to acquire and apply an understanding of desert geomorphology. Such an understanding is vital in managing scarce and fragile resources and in mitigating natural hazards This authoritative reference book is comprehensive in its coverage of the geomorphology of desert environments and is arranged thematically It begins with an overview of global deserts proceeds through treatments of weathering hillslopes rivers piedmonts lake basins and aeolian surfaces and concludes with a discussion of the role of climatic change Written by a team of international authors all of whom are active in the field the chapters cover the spectrum of desert geomorphology
