Philosophy and Religion Hastings Rashdall, 2017-11-23 Excerpt from Philosophy and Religion Six Lectures Delivered at Cambridge Theology is less a single science than an ency clopeedia of sciences indeed all the sciences which have to do with man have a better right to be called theological than anthropological though the man it studies is not simply an individual but a race Its way of viewing man is indeed characteristic from this have come some of its brighter ideals and some of its darkest dreams The ideals are all either ethical or social and would make of earth a heaven creating fraternity amongst men and forming all states into a goodly sisterhood the dreams may be represented by doctrines which concern sin on the one side and the will of God on the other But even this will cannot make sin luminous for were it made radiant with grace it would cease to be sin About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www forgottenbooks com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Philosophy and Religion Six Lectures Deliverd at Cambridge - Scholar's Choice Edition Hastings Rashdall,2015-02-18 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work was reproduced from the original artifact and remains as true to the original work as possible Therefore you will see the original copyright references library stamps as most of these works have been housed in our most important libraries around the world and other notations in the work This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work As a reproduction of a historical artifact this work may contain missing or blurred pages poor pictures errant marks etc Scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be preserved reproduced and made generally available to the public We appreciate your support of the preservation process and thank you for being an important part of keeping this knowledge alive and relevant Philosophy and Religion Hastings Rashdell, 2014-02-13 A brilliant and insightful Christian apologist Hastings Rashdell bridges the gap between man's search for Truth through his exploration of philosophy and the Truth of God Hastings expounds on moral idealism as it relates to utilitarianism and explains how our moral compasses should be aligned in accordance to man's potential for understanding Philosophy and Religion ,1909 Philosophy and Religion (Esprios Classics) Hastings Rashdall,2021-05-11 Hastings Rashdall FBA 24 June 1858 9 February 1924 was an English philosopher theologian historian and Anglican priest He expounded a theory known as ideal utilitarianism and he was a major historian of the universities of the Middle Ages Born in Kensington London Rashdall was the son of an Anglican priest He was educated at Harrow and received a scholarship for New College Oxford After short tenures at St David s University College and University College Durham Rashdall was made a Fellow of first Hertford College Oxford then New College Oxford and dedicates his main work The Theory of Good and Evil 1907 to the memory of his teachers T H Green and Henry Sidgwick Rashdall received the degree Doctor of Letters DL from New College Oxford in October 1901 Philosophy and Religion: 6 Lectures Delivered at Cambridge Hastings Rashdall, 2012-07-16 Man has no deeper or wider interest than theology none deeper for however much he may change he never loses his love of the many questions it covers and none wider for under whatever law he may live he never escapes from its spacious shade nor does he ever find that it speaks to him in vain or uses a voice that fails to reach him Once the present writer was talking with a friend who has equal fame as a statesman and a man of letters and he said Every day I live Politics which are affairs of Man and Time interest me less while Theology which is an affair of God and Eternity interests me more As with him so with many though the many feel that their interest is in theology and not in dogma Dogma they know is but a series of resolutions framed by a council or parliament which they do not respect any the more because the parliament was composed of ecclesiastically minded persons while the theology which so interests them is a discourse touching God though the Being so
