Tone Moira Jean Winsland Yip, 2002-08-15 This comprehensive textbook provides a clearly organized introduction to tone and tonal phonology

The Structure of Tone Zhiming Bao, 1999 Annotation This book argues a fresh theory about the structure of tone Bao investigates a wide range of tone sandhi data from various Chinese dialects and other Asian tone languages providing empirical support for his proposal that tone is a formal entity which consists of register and contour Bao establishes a clear typological distinction between register tone languages and contour tone languages whose contour tones have a more complex structure

Frontiers of Phonology Jacques Durand, Francis Katamba, 2014-09-25 Frontiers of Phonology is a collection of essays that present a selective overview of trends in the linguistic analysis of sound structure The essays are written by specialists from Europe Canada and the USA and discuss issues from three broad areas of phonology the nature and representation of phonological features the role and structure of the skeletal tier and syllable structure and the competing claims of derivational and declarative approaches to phonology The book provides a forum for lively discussion of important theoretical topics from various standpoints including metrical and autosegmental phonology dependency phonology and declarative phonology The contributors who are protagonists of these different standpoints compare notes and show the merits of their different approaches The essays discussing derivational issues offer an excellent introduction to the area of constraints based phonology and by covering the phonology of many languages the book provides an understanding of how human languages in general use sound

Fundamentals of Phonetics, Phonology and Tonology Rose-Juliet Anyanwu, 2008 This book is to some extent a reference work uniting theory and description It comprises four structured parts Phonetics Phonology Tonology and Specific African Sound Patterns By means of concrete examples the book describes and compares a wide range of basic and current issues and facts that are of utmost relevance for all persons working on language or linguistics as well as in related fields The book provides core instruments needed and used in the study of phonology and phonological analyses It discusses modern phonological theories Phonological issues and processes such as vowel harmony assimilation dissimilation lenition as well as fortition are explained Prosodic topics such as tone stress pitch and intonation are considered Issues in tonology include tonological analysis tonal behaviour and rules Special attention is given to specific sounds found in African languages

The Handbook of Phonological Theory John A. Goldsmith, Jason Riggle, Alan C. L. Yu, 2014-01-07 The Handbook of Phonological Theory second edition offers an innovative and detailed examination of recent developments in phonology and the implications of these within linguistic theory and related disciplines Revised from the ground up for the second edition the book is comprised almost entirely of newly written and previously unpublished chapters Addresses the important questions in the field including learnability phonological interfaces tone and variation and assesses the findings and accomplishments in these domains Brings together a renowned and international contributor team Offers new and unique reflections on the advances in phonological theory since publication of the first edition in 1995 Along with the first edition still in publication it forms the most complete and current overview of the subject in print

The Oxford Handbook of Laboratory Phonology Abigail C. Cohn, Cécile Fougeron, Marie K. Huffman, 2012 This book provides state of the art coverage of research in laboratory phonology Laboratory phonology denotes a research perspective not a specific theory it represents a broad community of scholars dedicated to bringing interdisciplinary experimental approaches and methods to bear on how spoken language is structured learned and used it draws on a wide range of tools and concepts from cognitive and natural sciences This book describes the investigative approaches disciplinary perspectives and methods deployed in laboratory phonology and highlights the most promising areas of current research Part one introduces the history nature and aims of laboratory phonology The remaining four parts cover central issues in research done within this perspective as well as methodological resources used for investigating these issues Contributions to this volume address how laboratory phonology approaches have provided insight into human speech and language structure and how theoretical questions and methodologies are intertwined This Handbook the first specifically dedicated to the laboratory phonology approach builds on the foundation of knowledge amassed in linguistics speech research and allied disciplines With the varied interdisciplinary contributions collected the Handbook advances work in this vibrant field

Tone Sandhi Matthew Y. Chen, 2000-08-03 Matthew Chen's study first published in 2000 offers a most comprehensive analysis of the rich and complex patterns of tone used in Chinese languages Chinese has a wide repertoire of tones which undergo often surprising changes when they are connected in speech flow The term tone sandhi refers to this tonal alternation Chen examines tone sandhi phenomena in detail across a variety of Chinese dialects He explores a range of important theoretical issues such as the nature of tonal representation the relation of tone to accent the prosodic domain of sandhi rules and the interface between syntax and phonology His book is the culmination of a ten year research project and offers a wealth of empirical data not previously accessible to linguists Extensive references and a bibliography on tone sandhi complete this invaluable resource which will be welcomed as a standard reference on Chinese tone

The Oxford Handbook of African Languages Rainer Vossen, Gerrit J. Dimmendaal, 2020-03-19 This book provides a comprehensive overview of current research in African languages drawing on insights from anthropological linguistics typology historical and comparative linguistics and sociolinguistics Africa is believed to host at least one third of the world's languages usually classified into four phyla Niger Congo Afro Asiatic Nilo Saharan and Khoisan which are then subdivided into further families and subgroupings This volume explores all aspects of research in the field beginning with chapters that cover the major domains of grammar and comparative approaches Later parts provide overviews of the phyla and subfamilies alongside grammatical sketches of eighteen representative African languages of diverse genetic affiliation The volume additionally explores multiple other topics relating to African languages and linguistics with a particular focus on extralinguistic issues language cognition and culture including colour terminology and conversation analysis language and society including language contact and endangerment language and history and language and orature This wide ranging handbook will be a valuable reference for scholars and students in all areas of African linguistics and anthropology and for anyone interested in descriptive documentary typological and comparative linguistics

Tones in Zhangzhou Yishan Huang, 2020-01-16 This book explores the nature of tones in Zhangzhou an under described Southern Min variety based on quantitative analyses of data from 21 native speakers It will interest students and linguists studying tone in languages of China and elsewhere in the world in particular as an exemplar in the use of statistical methods to test and establish phonological categories in language The study finds that realisations of Zhangzhou tones are multidimensional and that Zhangzhou has eight tones overturning previous studies of seven tones based on the preservation of Middle Chinese tonal categories The results presented here also suggest that the nature of Zhangzhou tones is morphological The relationship between sandhi and citation tones is shown to be morphophonemic while the relationship between phrase final and citation tones is allophonic

Principles of Radical CV Phonology van der Hulst Harry van der Hulst, 2020-07-06 Harry van der Hulst's model of Radical CV Phonology has roots in the framework of Dependency Phonology but proposes a rather different geometry which reduces the set of unary elements to just two C and V The model explains the phonological distinctions that function contrastively in the world's languages rather than presenting it as a random list Van der Hulst shows how this model accounts for a number of central claims about markedness and minimal specification He explains how the representational system accounts for phonological rules and shows how this theory can be applied to sign language structure Through comparison to other models he also provides insight into current theories of segmental structure commonly used feature systems as well as recurrent controversies

Advances in African Linguistics Vicki Carstens, Frederick Parkinson, 2000 This volume contains a selection of the papers presented at the 28th Annual Conference on African Linguistics which took place at Cornell University from July 18-22 1997 The editors have sought to include works which make both theoretical and descriptive contributions to this rich area of study The volume is in five sections Section I consists of Kay Williamson's plenary paper Reconstructing Proto Igboid Obstruents Section II contains papers on aspects of African language syntax Section III is devoted to phonology and morphology of African languages Papers on phonetics make up Section IV and Section V contains sociolinguistic studies Among the contributors to this volume are E O Aboh who presents evidence from Gungbe for articulated IP and CP structure L Bickmore who proposes an account of how glides affect tonal behavior A Ngunga proposes an account of how Bantu verbal extensions are ordered and D Mengara who argues that French as used in Africa is genuinely an African language
