Photographing the Invisible James Coates (Ph.D., F.A.S.),1921      Photographing the Invisible James Coates,1911 In this 100 year old book the mechanics of spirit photography are explained by apparent spirits communicating through mediums It has to do with ether and semi materialization apparently However the presence of a medium before the taking of the photograph is essential reportedly In addition the medium should be morally and physically healthy and able to maintain a passive mental state Anxiety is reportedly a great hindrance That way the subconscious thought forms are liberated There s a photo of Alfred Russel Wallace and his deceased mother Wallace states The facts were too many for me Photos of people s doubles were apparently also possible such as the photo taken of medium Stainton Moses and his double Mr Coates includes a photo of himself and his dead wife Thought photography is discussed towards the end of the book which apparently dates from 1876 Images of objects enter and fix themselves in our brains through the retina and then they can leave our brains by the same route reportedly Coates includes a letter from a correspondent who reportedly received evidence that there is a large band of workers in the spirit world who are helping to convince the Western World that there are things and beings which cannot be cognised by ordinary sense faculty A good book to generate conversation about

Photographing the Invisible Kevin Adrian Miller,2017 There can be a distancing effect in our interaction with the environment and it can be reduced to a spectacle rather than a multisensory experience through our use of photography This practice based research investigates the use of still photography to capture our peripheral interaction with the environment that we either do not notice or take for granted The aim is to capture this invisible daily interaction with the world in photographic form as a participant rather than a spectator Photographs that form the body of this research are constructed into visual narratives in order to consider an alternative way of understanding our interaction with space and place This research uses a number of camera and printing techniques to capture the nature of peripheral vision and expand the notion of what constitutes a photograph The results take the form of a series of field study investigations resulting in five photographic projects on peripheral vision space and place that become visual surrogates for these interactions In order to view a selection of the completed works the concluding exhibition installation uses a modified suburban house to provide a controlled light environment to trigger peripheral seeing through light and dark adaption
