Bauer, Peggy Bauer, 1987 Introduction to Ansel Adams Gilad James, PhD, 2021 Ansel Adams

was an American photographer born in San Francisco California on February 20 1902 He is considered one of the most important and influential photographers of the 20th century Adams developed a passion for photography at a young age and began taking pictures with a Box Brownie camera His first published photograph appeared in the Sierra Club Bulletin in 1922 Adams is best known for his work in landscape photography particularly his images of the American West His black and white photographs captured the rugged beauty of the landscapes and helped to influence how people viewed and appreciated the natural world Adams was also a writer and a conservationist and he dedicated much of his life to protecting the environment and promoting conservation efforts Adams was a pioneer in the use of the zone system a photographic technique that he developed to ensure consistent exposure and tonality in his photographs He was also an advocate for the use of large format cameras that produced high quality images with sharp detail and tonal range Adams photography was characterized by his use of bold contrasts deep shadows and rich textures His images often featured dramatic skies natural patterns or the interplay of light and shadow His photographs helped to redefine landscape photography as a fine art and his impact on the field continues to be felt today Adams died in Monterey California on April 22 1984 but his legacy lives on through his photographs and his contributions to the world of photography and conservation A Cultural History of

Firearms in the Age of Empire Karen Jones, 2016-03-16 Firearms have been studied by imperial historians mainly as means of human destruction and material production Yet firearms have always been invested with a whole array of additional social and symbolical meanings By placing these meanings at the centre of analysis the essays presented in this volume extend the study of the gun beyond the confines of military history and the examination of its impact on specific colonial encounters By bringing cultural perspectives to bear on this most pervasive of technological artefacts the contributors explore the densely interwoven relationships between firearms and broad processes of social change In so doing they contribute to a fuller understanding of some of the most significant consequences of British and American imperial expansions Not the least original feature of the book is its global frame of reference Bringing together historians of different periods and regions A Cultural History of Firearms in the Age of Empire overcomes traditional compartmentalisations of historical knowledge and encourages the drawing of novel and illuminating comparisons across time and space

When Home Won't Let You Stay Eva Respini, Ruth Erickson, 2019-01-01 Insightful and interdisciplinary this book considers the movement of people around the world and how contemporary artists contribute to our understanding of it In this timely volume artists and thinkers join in conversation around the topic of global migration examining both its cultural impact and the culture of migration itself Individual voices shed light on the societal transformations related to migration and its representation in 21st century art offering diverse points of entry into this massive phenomenon and its many manifestations The featured artworks range from painting sculpture and photography to installation video and sound art and their makers including Isaac Julien Richard Mosse Reena Saini Kallat Yinka Shonibare MBE and Do Ho Suh among many others hail from around the world Texts by experts in political science Latin American studies and human rights as well as contemporary art expand upon the political economic and social contexts of migration and its representation The book also includes three conversations in which artists discuss the complexity of making work about migration Amid worldwide tensions surrounding refugee crises and border security this publication provides a nuanced interpretation of the current cultural moment Intertwining themes of memory home activism and more When Home Won't Let You Stay meditates on how art both shapes and is shaped by the public discourse on migration
