White, 2008 The epic of the Port of Los Angeles was initiated more than 150 years ago by a handful of visionaries and entrepreneurs who exploited both fortunate and outrageous circumstances to transform a tidal mudflat into the world's largest man made harbor Phineas Banning and archrival Augustus Timms were among the first to realize the potential of the coastal dent on the map called San Pedro Bay in the 1850s The bay's namesake village expanded from a backwater loading point for raw cattle hides to a deepwater harbor rivaling and eventually surpassing San Francisco as the busiest port on the U S Pacific coast and would later become the nation's largest container port Political battles in far off Washington D C economic booms and depressions world wars and billions of tons of cargo and material later the Port of Los Angeles remains America's premier revolving door for trade with markets around the world The Manila-Acapulco Galleons : the Treasure Ships of the Pacific Shirley Fish, 2011-05-18 During the sixteenth to the nineteenth centuries the transpacific treasure galleons sailed annually from Manila to Acapulco In Manila the vessel was loaded with the scented spices of the East luxurious silks from China exquisite

The Marvel Book of American Ships Orton Porter Jackson, Frank Edgar Evans, 1917      Ships That Sail No More Giles T. Brown, 2021-12-14 This chronicle of coastal shipping in the western United States forms an important but hitherto neglected part of the history of transportation in America From the beginning the seaways were a vital link among the developing West Coast settlements and even after the completion of a north south rail line sturdy steamers continued to serve as the major carriers of freight and passengers along the Pacific Coast and as the chief economic and cultural contact of this region with the rest of America Here Giles T Brown surveys this transportation system at the height of its activity and in particular he traces the history of the Admiral Line which dominated West Coast shipping during the early decades of the twentieth century and whose decline mirrored that of the industry      Weekly Commercial News , 1926      Comet Matthew A.
