A Self-portrait Henry GREEN (pseud.), 1940 Great War Modernism Nanette Norris, 2015-12-16 New Modernist Studies while reviving and revitalizing modernist studies through lively scholarly debate about historicity aesthetics politics and genres is struggling with important questions concerning the delineation that makes discussion fruitful and possible This volume aims to explore and clarify the position of the so called core of literary modernism in its seminal engagement with the Great War In studying the years of the Great War we find ourselves once more studying the giants about whom there is so much more to say as well as adding hitherto marginalized writers and a few visual artists to the canon The contention here is that these war years were seminal to the development of a distinguishable literary practice which is called modernism but perhaps could be further delineated as Great War modernism a practice whose aesthetic merits can be addressed through formal analysis This collection of essays offers new insight into canonical British American European modernism of the Great War period using the critical tools of contemporary expansionist modernist studies By focusing on war and on the experience of the soldier and of those dealing with issues of war and survival these studies link the unique forms of expression found in modernism with the fragmented violent and traumatic experience of the time The Politics of 1930s British Literature Natasha Periyar, 2018-06-14 Winner of the 2018 International Standing Conference for the History of Education's First Book Award Drawing on a rich array of archival sources and historical detail The Politics of 1930s British Literature tells the story of a school minded decade and illuminates new readings of the politics and aesthetics of 1930s literature In a period of shifting political claims educational policy shaped writers social and gender ideals This book explores how a wide array of writers including Virginia Woolf W H Auden George Orwell Winifred Holtby and Graham Greene were informed by their pedagogic work It considers the ways in which education influenced writers analysis of literary style and their conception of future literary forms The Politics of 1930s British Literature argues that to those perennial symbols of the 1930s the loudspeaker and the gramophone should be added the textbook and the blackboard Pack My Bag Henry Green, 2011-08-31 Henry Green wrote his autobiography in 1940 aged only thirty five because he was convinced he wouldn't survive the war The result is a delightfully wayward and incisive portrait of English society and of the man himself From reminiscences of a childhood spent among the gentry to searing descriptions of Eton and Oxford to reflections on the author's first experiments with prose and with sex all Green's unique talents as a writer are on offer here at their most dazzling and accessible

Reading London in Wartime William Cederwell, 2017-11-06 Reading London in Wartime Blitz the People and Propaganda in 1940s Literature presents an expansive variety of writers and genres including non fiction and film approaches to build a comprehensive social picture of the atmosphere during wartime London From blitz and austerity to the nagging insistency of propaganda this volume examines the representation of London in wartime and early post war literature through each writer's unique perspective on the pressures of 1940s city life Exploring the use of London imagery this book considers how literature redirects attention to individual subjective experience at a time of enforced co operation uniformity and community Unlike government information films and news broadcasts which often used London to prop up prevailing clichés and stereotypes and encouraged patriotic support for the war literature had the freedom to express more recalcitrant truths London writing of the 1940s was not a literature of opposition or dissent but in offering more nuanced depictions of the period it was a counterweight to propaganda and the general war temperament In writing the city becomes a more complex place no longer the easy symbol of defiance and stoicism of the shared sacrifice of ration book and war work

Stewart,2006-10-12 This book identifies memory a previously unexamined concern in both literary and popular writing of the 1940s Emphasizing the use of memory as a structural device this book traces developments in narrative during and immediately after the war Authors include Margery Allingham Elizabeth Bowen Graham Greene Patrick Hamilton and Denton Welch      Autobiography and Imagination John Pilling, 2015-08-20 Originally published in 1981 This book looks at the autobiographical work of nine twentieth century writers Henry Adams Henry James W B Yeats Boris Pasternak Leiris Jean Paul Sartre Vladimir Nabokov Henry Green and Adrian Stokes The author argues that often the writer has shaped his life through his craft coming to understand the pattern of his own existence through the formalism of language In each case the writer stamps his personality on the work by means of a distinctive verbal surface whose discipline enables him to evade narrow egotism and forces both reader and writer into an act of collaboration and corroboration Written at a time when criticism was turning to focus on the relation between the reader and the text this study added a provocative dimension to the debate and is still an important read today      Concluding Henry Green, 2017-10-15 Henry Green considered Concluding the finest of all his books Concluding set in a single summer day has at its heart old Mr Rock a famous retired scientist he lives in a cottage on the grounds of a girl's boarding school Living with him is Elizabeth his somewhat unstrung granddaughter his white cat his white goose and Daisy his white pig Miss Edge and Miss Baker the two inseparable spinster harpies who run the school scheme to dislodge him from the cottage Concluding opens with the discovery that two of the schoolgirls have vanished in the night searching eavesdropping worrying jostling and giggling all ensue A love affair a dance that magnificent pig small joys and low ambitions all stream together crowding up to the reader's eye as Henry Green brews up an enchanting heartbreaking and darkly sunny novel      In Solitude, for Company Wystan Hugh Auden, 1995 The third volume of Auden's Studeis presents Auden in maturity and includes a large amount of previously unpublished prose by him The book concentrates on the relatively unexplored area of Auden's post 1940 writings and the letters essay and lectures printed here demonstrate the Goethean scope of his intellect which ranged easily from psychoanalysis to theology archaeology to politics In Solitude for Company contains two hitherto unpublished and little known lectures The first of these introduced by Nicholas Jenkins is on the theme of vocation delivered during the troubled war years when Auden was examining his own vocation The second lecture was given near the end of the poet's life on the subject of the value of the work of Sigmund Freud Katherine Bucknell precedes this with the first full length examination of Auden's intensely ambivalent relation to Freud Auden's correspondence with his close friends James and Tania Stern reveals much new and important biographical information and Edward Mendelson's further supplement to the Auden Bibliography provides an extensive listing of all published letters by Auden In addition distinguished literary critics including David Bromwich Lawrence Lipking Edna Longley and Michael Wood together with the nonagenarian communist Edward Upward contribute to a symposium on one of this century's most famous poems In Praise of Limestone      Memory A S Byatt, Harriet Harvey Wood, 2018-10-22 This fascinating anthology introduces us to a wide range of arguments on the subject of memory the thread that holds our lives and our history together Arranged in themed sections the book includes specially commissioned essays by the editors and by writers with expertise in different fields from Memory and Evolution by Patrick Bateson to Memory and Forgetting by the biographer Richard Holmes and an account of the chemistry of the brain by Steven Rose Complementing the essays are a rich selection of extracts from writers and thinkers such as Plato and Aristotle Montaigne and Shakespeare Wordsworth and Proust Jorge Luis Borges and Haruki Murakami Stimulating provocative funny or profoundly moving Memory is a book to treasure and remember

British Literature and Culture in Second World Wartime Beryl Pong, 2020-05-14 British Literature and Culture in Second World Wartime excavates British late modernism's relationship to war in terms of chronophobia a joint fear of the past and future As a wartime between but distinct from those of the First World War and the Cold War Second World wartime involves an anxiety that is both repetition and imaginary both a dread of past violence unleashed anew and that of a future violence still ungraspable Identifying a constellation of temporalities and affects under three tropes time capsules time zones and ruins this volume contends that Second World wartime is a pivotal moment when wartime surpassed the boundaries of a specific state of emergency becoming first routine and then open ended It offers a synoptic wide ranging look at writers on the home front including Henry Green Elizabeth Bowen Virginia Woolf and Rose Macaulay through a variety of genres such as life writing the novel and the short story It also considers an array of cultural and archival material from photographers such as Cecil Beaton filmmakers such as Charles Crichton and artists such as John Minton It shows how figures harnessed or exploited their media's temporal properties to formally register the distinctiveness of this wartime through a complex feedback between anticipation and retrospection oftentimes fashioning the war as a memory even while it was taking place While offering a strong foundation for new readers of the mid century the book's overall theoretical focus on chronophobia will be an important intervention for those already working in the field
