Ethics and Law in Biological Research Cosimo Marco Mazzoni, 2002-04-11 Scientific research on biotechnologies has become the protagonist of discoveries that exert a formidable impact on public opinion Every day popular opinion is challenged by the media so that it becomes not only a witness of these developments but is also to a certain extent forced to become a judge of those cases where human and animal genetics have been investigated over the last decades The man in the street is thus confronted by moral positions ranging from cautious approval to wait and see attitudes to unconditional condemnation On the other hand scientists are involved in the ethical evaluation of the results of their own research However the results of scientific pursuits are capable of producing immediate effects on the daily life of every human being Consequently alongside the scientists people feel strongly about their need and their right to contribute to an accurate assessment of the effects of science on society This is a collection of essays reflecting a considerable range of different cultural experiences and different ethical underpinnings The main subject is cloning Cloning is the most accessible and most readily perceived point of convergence from which ethical judgments on the current developments of scientific investigations can be proposed Cloning is also the paradox on which the confrontation between scientific research and popular imagination is focused

Italian Fascism R.J.B. Bosworth, Patrizia Dogliani, 2016-07-27 Bringing together scholars from the Italian and English speaking worlds Bosworth and Dogliani's edited book reviews the history of the memory and representation of Fascism after 1945 Ranging in their study from patriotic monuments to sado masochistic films the essays here collected ask how and why and when Mussolini's dictatorship mattered after the event and so provide a fascinating study of the relationship between a traumatic past and the changing present and future Roberto Rossellini Peter Brunette, 2024-03-29 This is the first full length study in any language of the most significant film director of Italian Neorealism Peter Brunette combines close analyses of Roberto Rossellini's formal and narrative style with a thorough account of his position in the political and cultural landscape of postwar Italy More than forty films are explored including Open City Paisan Voyage to Italy The Rise to Power of Louis XIV and films made in the director's later years that documented crucial epochs in human history Brunette's book is based on eight years of research during which he interviewed members of the director's family as well as Rossellini himself Brunette also draws on an enormous body of European and American criticism and discusses the various intellectual debates spawned by the director's work This landmark study is both a comprehensive introduction to one of the most influential practitioners of the contemporary cinema and a boldly original discussion of Italian Neorealism This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1996 The Child in Film Karen Lury, 2010-03-30 Ghastly and ghostly children dirty little white girls the child as witness and as victim have always played an important part in the history of cinema as have child performers themselves In exploring the disruptive power of the child in films made for an adult audience across popular films including Taxi Driver and Japanese horror and art house productions like Mirror and Pan's Labyrinth Karen Lury investigates why the figure of the child has such a significant impact on the visual aspects and storytelling potential of cinema Lury's main argument is that the child as a liminal yet powerful agent has allowed filmmakers to play adventurously with cinema's formal conventions with far reaching consequences In particular she reveals how a child's relationship to time allows it to disturb and question conventional master narratives She explores too the investment in the child actor and expression of child sexuality as well as how confining and conservative existing assumptions can be in terms of commonly held beliefs as to who children really are
