Nutrition and Human Reproduction W. Mosley,2012-12-06 This book is the product of the Conference on Nutrition and Human Reproduction supported and organized by the National Institutes of Child Health and Human Development and held at the National Institutes of Health Bethesda Maryland in February 1977 The genesis of this Conference came from the work of the Subcommittee on Nutrition and Fertility of the Committee on International Nutrition Programs of the National Research Council The purpose of the Conference was to assemble scientists and program planners from a broad range of fields including nutrition epidemiology demography endocrinology sociology economics anthropology biostatistics and public health Each individual brought his or her analytical skills and perspective to the meeting with the goal of developing a more coherent picture of the many facets of nutrition and reproduction The approach was to get a more comprehensive view by 1 Clarifying terminology and definitions 2 Reviewing recent and current work on the biological basis for nutrition fertility interactions 3 Reviewing biomedical and socioeconomic factors related to breast feeding to assess how this practice relates to maternal and infant nutrition and fertility 4 Assessing some current analytical models for defining nutrition fertility interrelationships 5 Reviewing recent field studies from Africa Asia and Latin America which are examining the interrelationships of nutrition and reproduction

Common Dilemmas in Family Medicine John Fry,2012-12-06 One of the exciting challenges of medicine has been the reaching of decisions based on less than complete evidence As undergraduates in teaching hospitals future physicians are taught to think in clear and absolute black and white terms Diagnoses in teaching hospitals all are based on supportive positive findings of investigations Treatment follows logically on precise diagnosis When patients die the causes of death are confirmed at autopsy How very different is real life in clinical practice and particularly in family medicine By the very nature of the common conditions that present diagnoses tend to be imprecise and based on clinical assessment and interpretation Much of the management and treatment of patients is based on opinions of individual physicians based on their personal experiences Because of the relative professional isolation of family physicians within their own practices not unexpectedly divergent views and opinions are formed There is nothing wrong in such divergencies because there are no clear absolute black and white decisions General family practice functions in grey areas of medicine where it is possible and quite correct to hold polarized distinct opinions The essence of good care must be eternal flexibility and readiness to change long held cherished opinions To demonstrate that with many issues in family medicine it is possible to have more than one view I selected 10 clinical and 11 non clinical topics and invited colleagues and fellow practitioners to enter into a debate in print
