environmental issues revising the understanding of nature as an object and thinking of nature and culture in conjunction. However, consensus of the methodological strategies needed to guide the development of multi scale landscape planning and design capable of responding to the climate emergency, heritage, water biodiversity and social inclusion among other issues has not been achieved. Green infrastructure has emerged as a tool to link considerations of the planning and design process to examine the impact urban nature can have at a global and a local scale. The book gathers together authors from different parts of the world and disciplines to showcase conceptual thinking, best practices and methodological strategies relating to landscape planning and design with green infrastructure adapted to climate change. The topic of this book is particularly relevant to scholars, practitioners and developers around the world who have an interest in planning and environmental management, landscape architecture and socio cultural understandings of landscape.

Landscape and Identity in the Modern Basque Country, 1800 to 1936 Maitane Ostolaza, 2022-12-30. Landscape and Identity in the Modern Basque Country 1800 to 1936 studies the relationship between landscape and modern identities in the Basque Country. Using an interdisciplinary approach that combines cultural history and geography, it analyses the process of historical construction of the Basque landscape, highlighting its multiple political, social and cultural meanings. The book is divided into two parts: the first examines the discourses, images and representations of the Basque landscape; the second examines landscape practices through tourism, hiking and mountaineering. Focusing on the Basque case but establishing numerous connections with comparable phenomena in Western Europe, the book demonstrates that the landscape became a structuring element insofar as it helped shape individual identities while participating in the creation of social links. This book examines the processes of identity construction from below by means of new interpretative tools such as the experience of landscape. This work, originally published in French, brings to an English speaking audience a crucial issue in the modern history of the Basque Country: namely the cultural construction of a collective identity within the framework of a nation state such as Spain, confronted with multiple territorial identities. Approaching this question from the perspective of landscape provides new keys to understanding the processes of nation building that occurred in Europe in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries.

System of Open Spaces Raquel Tardín, 2012-08-11. In the current panorama of urban growth and planning in many urban territories of western societies, open spaces are residual spaces of urban occupation or are reserved for eventual occupation. Open spaces have been viewed in this manner in the earlier stages of the compact city and especially now in a time of the dispersed territories characterized by discontinuity, heterogeneity and fragmentation. The disciplinary perspectives of ecology, geology, landscape architecture and urbanism but also public opinion have for some time promoted the conservation and protection of the most valuable natural spaces and efforts have been made to remove such spaces from the real estate market. However, such positions, usually radical, are insufficient for territorial equilibrium and inevitably lead to the progressive disappearance of valuable natural spaces.
