Guthke,2018-05-24 In this fascinating collection of essays Harvard Emeritus Professor Karl S Guthke examines the ways in which for European scholars and writers of the eighteenth and early nineteenth century world wide geographical exploration led to an exploration of the self Guthke explains how in the age of Enlightenment and beyond intellectual developments were fuelled by excitement about what Ulrich Im Hof called the grand opening up of the wide world especially of the interior of the non European continents This outward turn was complemented by a fascination with the world within as anthropology and ethnology focused on the humanity of the indigenous populations of far away lands an interest in human nature that suggested a way for Europeans to understand themselves encapsulated in Gauguin s Tahitian rumination What are we The essays in the first half of the book discuss first or second hand physical or mental encounters with the exotic lands and populations beyond the supposed cradle of civilisation The works of literature and documents of cultural life featured in these essays bear testimony to the crossing not only of geographical ethnological and cultural borders but also of borders of a variety of intellectual activities and interests The second section examines the growing interest in astronomy and the engagement with imagined worlds in the universe again with a view to understanding homo sapiens as compared now to the extra terrestrials that were confidently assumed to exist The final group of essays focuses on the exploration of the landscape of what was called the universe within featuring among a variety of other texts Schiller s plays The Maid of Orleans and William Tell these essays observe and analyse what Erich Heller termed The Artist s Journey into the Interior This collection which travels from the interior of continents to the interior of the mind is itself a set of explorations that revel in the discovery of what was half hidden in language Written by a scholar of international repute it is eye opening reading for all those with an interest in the literary and cultural history of and since the Enlightenment Wonder Confronts Certainty

Gary Saul Morson,2023-05-16 A noted literary scholar traverses the Russian canon exploring how realists idealists and revolutionaries debated good and evil moral responsibility and freedom Since the age of Tolstoy Dostoevsky and Chekhov Russian literature has posed questions about good and evil moral responsibility and human freedom with a clarity and intensity found nowhere else In this wide ranging meditation Gary Saul Morson delineates intellectual debates that have coursed through two centuries of Russian writing as the greatest thinkers of the empire and then the Soviet Union enchanted readers with their idealism philosophical insight and revolutionary fervor Morson describes the Russian literary tradition as an argument between a radical intelligentsia that uncompromisingly followed ideology down the paths of revolution and violence and writers who probed ever more deeply into the human condition The debate concerned what Russians called the accursed questions If there is no God are good and evil merely human constructs Should we look for life s essence in ordinary or extreme conditions Are individual minds best understood in terms of an overarching theory or as Tolstoy thought by tracing the tiny alternations of consciousness Exploring apologia for bloodshed Morson adapts Mikhail Bakhtin s concept of the non alibi the idea that one cannot escape or displace responsibility for one s actions And throughout Morson isolates a characteristic theme of Russian culture how the aspiration to relieve profound suffering can lead to either heartfelt empathy or bloodthirsty tyranny What emerges is a contest between unyielding dogmatism and open minded dialogue between heady certainty and a humble sense of wonder at the world s elusive complexity a thought provoking journey into inescapable questions
