Midwives Coping with Loss and Grief Doreen Kenworthy, Mavis Kirkham, 2019-01-22 The experience of stillbirth and other losses in pregnancy at what is usually a time of great joy is tragic for everyone involved including midwifery professionals Although research increasingly shows how profound the effects of loss can be few studies have explored the effects of pregnancy loss which often leads to other personal and professional traumas such as loss of autonomy or a workplace on midwives This in depth investigation uses a phenomenological approach to capture midwives experiences of loss and grief in their own words and encompasses both pregnancy loss and wider professional and personal issues It then makes recommendations to enhance midwives resilience and ability to cope appropriately whilst giving maximum support to their clients Reflections on the emerging implications for midwifery education and practice further broaden the scope of the analysis The insights in this book will be of great use to midwifery managers and supervisors They will also help midwives to nurture themselves their colleagues and their clients at a time when pressures on the service can leave support lacking The devastating experience of losing a baby for women and their families is something that as midwives we strive to understand in order to provide appropriate practical and emotional support Doreen and Mavis encourage us to consider how we are affected by the grief of others at a deeply personal level Ultimately the message in this book is one of hope through reflection and the sharing of experiences midwives who have been with women whose babies have died can regain their personal strength and learn to re shape memories in ways that contribute to personal growth and understanding A From the Foreword by Nicky Leap

Managing Death: International Perspectives Gerry R. Cox, Neil Thompson, 2022-09-23 There is a huge collection of literature relating to death grief and bereavement but one aspect that has received relatively little attention is that of death management practices by which we mean the various ways of managing the circumstances of the death ritually acknowledging it and sensitively handling the disposal of the body and so on While ways of disposing of the dead and grief practices have been thought of as based upon individual responses grief and bereavement practices can be understood not only by looking at psychological and medical frameworks but also by examining people as part of a complex structure of social arrangements institutions structures and patterns By examining the social and institutional structures of various groups around the world we provide an international framework for a better understanding of the study of dying death and bereavement This book highlights the significance of these matters in an international context reflecting common themes and important differences It will highlight common themes across diverse cultures and national settings while also drawing attention to significant differences If professionals working in the field of death grief and bereavement are not aware of such differences their practice can be insensitive discriminatory and therefore ineffective if not actually counterproductive As such the book provides an invaluable resource for a wide variety of professionals and students including medicine and health care social work counselling and psychotherapy chaplaincy and pastoral work and of course those involved in the funeral industry In addition students of sociology psychology and anthropology will find much of interest here in terms of appreciating the diversity of ways in which funerals and other death management practices are managed and integrated into social life
