Victorian Glassworlds Isobel Armstrong, 2008-04-24 Isobel Armstrong's startlingly original and beautifully illustrated book tells the stories that spring from the mass production of glass in nineteenth century England Moving across technology industry local history architecture literature print culture the visual arts optics and philosophy it will transform our understanding of the Victorian period The mass production of glass in the nineteenth century transformed an ancient material into a modern one at the same time transforming the environment and the nineteenth century imagination It created a new glass culture hitherto inconceivable Glass culture constituted Victorian modernity It was made from infinite variations of the prefabricated glass panel and the lens The mirror and the window became its formative elements both the texts and constituents of glass culture The glassworlds of the century are heterogeneous They manifest themselves in the technologies of the factory furnace in the myths of Cinderella and her glass slipper circulated in print media in the ideologies of the conservatory as building type in the fantasia of the shopfront in the production of chandeliers in the Crystal Palace and the lens made images of the magic lantern and microscope But they were nevertheless governed by two inescapable conditions First to look through glass was to look through the residues of the breath of an unknown artisan because glass was mass produced by incorporating glassblowing into the division of labour Second literally a new medium glass brought the ambiguity of transparency and the problems of mediation into the everyday It intervened between seer and seen incorporating a modern philosophical problem into bodily experience Thus for poets and novelists glass took on material and ontological political and aesthetic meanings Reading glass forwards into Bauhaus modernism Walter Benjamin overlooked an early phase of glass culture where the languages of glass are different The book charts this phase in three parts Factory archives trade union records and periodicals document the individual manufacturers and artisans who founded glass culture the industrial tourists who described it and the systematic politics of window breaking Part Two culminating in glass under glass at the Crystal Palace reads the glassing of the environment including the mirror the window and controversy round the conservatory and their inscription in poems and novels Part Three explores the lens from optical toys to philosophical instruments as the telescope and microscope were known A meditation on its history and phenomenology Victorian Glassworlds is a poetics of glass for nineteenth century modernity The Way of Lovers:

Living in Love and Faith The Church of England, 2020-11-09. Issues of gender and sexuality are intrinsic to people's experience, their sense of identity, their lives, and the loving relationships that shape and sustain them. The life and mission of the Church of England and of the worldwide Anglican Communion are affected by the deep and sometimes painful disagreements about these matters, divisions brought into sharper focus because of society's changing perspectives and practices, especially in relation to LGTBI people. Living in Love and Faith sets out to inspire people to think more deeply both about what it means to be human and to live in love and faith with one another. It tackles the tough questions and the divisions among Christians about what it means to be holy in a society in which understandings and practices of gender, sexuality, and marriage continue to change. Commissioned and led by the Bishops of the Church of England, the Living in Love and Faith project has involved many people across the Church and beyond, bringing together a great diversity and depth of expertise, conviction, and experience to explore these matters by studying what the Bible, theology, history, and the social and biological sciences have to say. After a Foreword from the Archbishops of Canterbury and York, the book opens with an invitation from the Bishops of the Church of England to embark on a learning journey in five parts. Part One sets current questions about human identity, sexuality, relationships, and marriage in the context of God's gift of life. Part Two takes a careful and dispassionate look at what is happening in the world with regard to identity, sexuality, relationships, and marriage. Part Three explores current Christian thinking and discussions about human identity, sexuality, and marriage. In the light of the good news of Jesus Christ, how do Christians understand and respond to the trends observed in Part Two? Part Four considers what it means for us as individuals and as a church to be Christ-like when it comes to matters of identity, sexuality, relationships, and marriage. Part Five invites the reader into a conversation between some of the people who have been involved in writing this book, who, having engaged with and written Parts One to Four, nevertheless come to different conclusions. Amid the biblical, theological, historical, and scientific exploration, each part includes Encounters with real contemporary disciples of Christ whose stories raise questions which ask us to discern where God is active in human lives.

The book ends with an appeal from the Bishops to join them in a period of discernment and decision making following the publication of Living in Love and Faith. The Living in Love and Faith book is accompanied by a range of free digital resources including films podcasts and an online library together with Living in Love and Faith The Course a 5 session course which is designed to help local groups engage with the resources also published by Church House Publishing Sons and Lovers: The Biography of a Novel Neil Roberts,2016-08-11 The book recounts the story of how Sons and Lovers was written how Lawrence s life was transformed during the writing and the contributions of the women in his life to his work *The Tatler.
