The Second Red Scare and the Unmaking of the New Deal Left Landon R.Y. Storrs,2013 The loyalty investigations triggered by the Red Scare of the 1940s and 1950s marginalised many talented women and men who had entered government service during the Great Depression seeking to promote social democracy as a means to economic reform Their influence over New Deal policymaking and their alliances with progressive labour and consumer movements elicited a powerful reaction from conservatives who accused them of being subversives Landon Storrs draws on newly declassified records of the federal employee loyalty program created in response to fears that Communists were infiltrating the U S government to reveal how disloyalty charges were used to silence these New Dealers and discredit their policies Because loyalty investigators rarely distinguished between Communists and other leftists many noncommunist leftists were forced to leave government or deny their political views Storrs finds that loyalty defendants were more numerous at higher ranks of the civil service than previously thought and that many were women or men with accomplished leftist wives Uncovering a forceful left feminist presence in the New Deal she shows how opponents on the Right exploited popular hostility to powerful women and their effeminate spouses The loyalty program not only destroyed many promising careers it prohibited discussion of social democratic policy ideas in government circles narrowing the scope of political discourse to this day Through a gripping narrative based on remarkable new sources Storrs demonstrates how the Second Red Scare undermined the reform potential of the New Deal and crippled the American welfare state Jacket Cold War and McCarthy Era Caroline S.

Morgan,2014-07-03 The 1970s revealed a number of infamous and sometimes illegal practices used by federal law enforcement agencies to monitor political dissent in the United States In the aftermath of Watergate the revelation of serious abuses created distrust of virtually all domestic intelligence operations and led to vigorous efforts at reform Richard E Morgan emphasizes the importance of guarding against an overreaction to the disclosures of the mid 1970s While acknowledging the need for many of the recent reforms that seek to establish accountability guarantee privacy and protect dissent he cautions against limitations on domestic intelligence gathering that could seriously hamper government's ability to prevent crime particularly terrorism Domestic Intelligence has several major objectives to trace the way in which government agencies became involved with domestic intelligence gathering to review the controversies and abuses associated with these agencies especially the FBI the CIA and the NSA to discuss the constitutionality of domestic intelligence collection to review intelligence reforms adopted and to suggest additional reforms This volume is concerned with the tension between the need to protect privacy and political dissent and the need for the government to protect the community Morgan concludes that intelligence operations aimed at anticipating criminal activity are necessary in a complex highly vulnerable society and that these operations can be conducted responsibly with proper guidelines and oversight mechanisms     ABA Journal ,1959-03 The ABA Journal serves the legal profession Qualified recipients are lawyers and judges law students law librarians and associate members of the American Bar Association     Report of the Commission on Government Security United States.
