Music in Martin Luther's Theology Yakub E. Kartawidjaja, 2021-04-12 The study aims to analyse the impact of Luther's theology on his thoughts about music It limits itself to an analysis of the topic by focusing on the three most important statements of Luther about music in his unfinished treatise On Music The first statement is that music is a gift of God and not of man Dei donum hominum est second music creates joyful soul facit letos animos and third music drives away the devil fugat diabolum The relation between these three statements to each other and to Luther's theology in general can be understood in connection with his personal experiences and commitments to music which were undergirded by his theology Luther as a man of medieval times took for granted the existence of the devil and many of his writings contained frequent references to the personal attacks of the devil where it influenced his thoughts about music

Music, Modernity, and God Jeremy Begbie, 2013-11-22 When the story of modernity is told from a theological perspective music is routinely ignored despite its pervasiveness in modern culture and the manifold ways it has been intertwined with modernity's ambivalent relation to the Christian God In conversation with musicologists and music theorists this collection of essays shows that the practices of music and the discourses it has generated bear their own kind of witness to some of the pivotal theological currents and counter currents shaping modernity Music has been deeply affected by these currents and in some cases may have played a part in generating them In addition Jeremy Begbie argues that music is capable of yielding highly effective ways of addressing and moving beyond some of the more intractable theological problems and dilemmas which modernity has bequeathed to us

Music, Modernity, and God includes studies of Calvin Luther and Bach an exposition of the intriguing tussle between Rousseau and the composer Rameau and an account of the heady exaltation of music to be found in the early German Romantics Particular attention is paid to the complex relations between music and language and the ways in which theology a discipline involving language at its heart can come to terms with practices like music practices which are coherent and meaningful but which in many respects do not operate in language like ways
