Office of War Information, 1942 The North American Journal of Homeopathy, 1918 Current Issues in Nursing Peta Allan, Moya Jolley, 2013-11-11 The editors' intention in the production of this book was to provide a realistic picture of the present state of nursing. This has been presented from a number of different but interlinked perspectives. The decades since the inception of the National Health Service have been ones of significant change both in society at large and in the field of health care. The period has witnessed political, economic, social, scientific and technological change taking place ever more rapidly whilst in terms of health care demand and expectations continue to increase apace. Nursing throughout the period has been influenced by and has responded to these prevailing influences and continues to do so. Contributors to this volume have sought to examine in depth some of the current issues in nursing at the present time. Each chapter examines a specific issue in the current nursing context and is therefore capable of standing alone. But considered together the chapters enable many aspects of the current debate on and development of nursing to be seen as a whole. It is hoped that this book will serve two fundamental purposes. First to stimulate debate and activity by all nurses in their particular sphere of influence and in the wider world of nursing. Second it aims to inform those undertaking pre or post registration nursing programmes and thus assist their understanding of the state of nursing Understanding Medical Surgical Nursing Linda S Williams, Paula D Hopper, 2015-01-09 Here's everything you need to know to care for adult medical surgical patients and pass the NCLEX-PN. Easy to understand guidance helps you confidently grasp the principles, concepts and skills essential for practice This Is Really War Emilie Le Beau Lucchesi, 2019-05-07 In January 1940 navy nurse Dorothy Still eagerly anticipated her new assignment at a military hospital in the Philippines. Her first year abroad was an adventure. She dated sailors and attended dances. But as 1941 progressed signs of imminent war grew more urgent. Military wives and children were shipped home to the States and the sailors increased their daily drills. Days after Pearl Harbor was attacked the Japanese military assaulted the Philippines. When Manila fell to Japan in early January 1942 Dorothy was held captive in a hospital and then transferred to a civilian prison camp. Under the direction of Chief Nurse Laura Cobb Dorothy and ten other navy nurses maintained rank and reported each day to a makeshift hospital. Cramped conditions, disease and poor nutrition meant the navy nurses and their army counterparts were overwhelmed caring for the camp In May 1943 a civilian physician asked Cobb if the navy nurses would consider transferring to a new prison camp in the countryside The twelve nurses feared the unknown but they could not deny they were needed On the morning of their departure inmates used the public address system to play the navy fight song Anchors Aweigh The nurses were overwhelmed by the response They had indeed been the anchors of the camp who kept ill inmates from drifting In the new prison camp the twelve anchors turned a stripped infirmary into a functioning hospital Despite their own ailments they provided nonstop care for starving diseased and abused inmates Over the years their friendships deepened and several of the women including Dorothy even found love This Is Really War is an inspiring story about a young nurse who fought for life during a dark time
