Insistence of the Material Christopher Breu, 2014-09-15 Insistence of the Material engages with recent theories of materiality and biopolitics to provide a radical reinterpretation of experimental fiction in the second half of the twentieth century In contrast to readings that emphasize the metafictional qualities of these works Christopher Breu examines this literature's focus on the material conditions of everyday life from the body to built environments and from ecosystems to economic production In Insistence of the Material Breu rethinks contemporary understandings of biopolitics affirming the importance of forms of materiality that refuse full socialization and resist symbolic manipulation Breu considers a range of novels that reflect questions of materiality in a biopolitical era including William Burroughs's Naked Lunch Thomas Pynchon's V J G Ballard's Crash Dodie Bellamy's The Letters of Mina Harker and Leslie Marmon Silko's Almanac of the Dead Drawing from accounts of the emergence of immaterial production and biopolitics by Michel Foucault Giorgio Agamben Roberto Esposito and Michael Hardt and Antonio Negri Breu reveals the confrontational dimensions of materiality itself in a world devoted to the idea of its easy malleability and transcendence Taking his analysis beyond the boundaries of literature Breu argues that both materiality and subjectivity form sites of resistance to biopolitical control and that new developments in materialist theory advance a conception of social existence in which materiality rather than language or culture is the central term

The Terrible We Cameron Awkward-Rich, 2022-08-08 In The Terrible We Cameron Awkward Rich thinks with the bad feelings and mad habits of thought that persist in both transphobic discourse and trans cultural production Observing that trans studies was founded on a split from and disavowal of madness illness and disability Awkward Rich argues for and models a trans criticism that works against this disavowal By tracing the coproduction of the categories of disabled and transgender in the United States at the turn of the twentieth century and analyzing transmasculine literature and theory by Eli Clare Elliott DeLine Dylan Scholinski and others Awkward Rich suggests that thinking with maladjustment might provide new perspectives on the impasses arising from the conflicted relationships among trans feminist and queer In so doing he demonstrates that rather than only impeding or confining trans life thought and creativity forms of maladjustment have also been and will continue to be central to their development Duke University Press Scholars of Color First Book Award recipient Trans Medicine Stef M. The Man Who Invented Gender Terry Goldie, 2014-07-31 In 1955 the controversial and innovative sexologist John Money first used the term gender in a way that we all now take for granted to describe a human characteristic Money's work broke new ground and gave currency to medical ideas about human sexuality As an ardent advocate for sexual liberation he became something of a fixture in the popular imagination This book cuts through Money's talent for polemic and self promotion by digging into the substance of Money's theories and achievements It offers for the first time a balanced and probing textual analysis of this pioneering scholar's writing to assess Money's profound impact on the debates and research on sexuality and gender that dominated the last half of the twentieth century Through his analysis Goldie recovers Money's brilliance and insight from simplistic dismissals of his work due to his involvement in the tragic David Reimer case while never losing sight of his flaws
