Luo Kenya Uganda:

The Luo People in South Sudan Kon K. Madut, 2020-08-13 This work draws from several interpretations and perceptions of Luo ethnic groups regarding their kinships lineages and the geocultural claims pertaining to their identity and sociocultural interactions among social groups and communities It builds on the current literature and oral history to methodologically reaffirm kinships and establish ethnic lineages Most contemporary Luo narratives come from Kenya and Uganda in addition to those written by Western anthropologists and missionaries None of these narratives have changed the content of the oral stories told by Luo groups and subgroups in Africa especially those related to their lineages ethnic affiliations and their path of immigration from South Sudan to Tanzania but have instead confirmed the history stories and mythology of the greater Luo groups in Africa This book will serve to evoke intellectual curiosity among African social scientists prompting them to conduct more research to further understanding of Luo ethnic groups ways of life and social interactions as well as their contributions to the sociopolitical and economic development in the countries and regions they inhabit

Neighbours and Nationals in an African City Ward David Parkin, 2024-03-29 This study analyses the way in which tribal ties are maintained in the development of a tribally mixed middle class community in Kampala Uganda Political independence in the early nineteen sixties in much of Africa created expectations of increased development education and living standards There was hope that ethnic tensions arising from false colonial boundaries might be transcended by newly emerging socio economic status groups. However the new national boundaries suddenly made aliens of peoples who had migrated and settled in towns distant from their home countries. The interplay of nationality ethnicity and socio economic status or class was given a new theatre. Hope was dramatically tempered by nationalist and ethnic conflicts which cut across ethnically mixed small status groups of neighbours and friends. In Kampala Uganda this rapidly unfolding drama resulted in the expulsion of two Kenyan ethnic groups and polarised peoples from northern and southern Uganda. The essentialisation of ethnic and national identity imposed by colonialism was thus taken on in this new situation by the people themselves with the result that they became cultural starting points of social and political judgement. Elizabeth Isichei,1997-04-13 This comprehensive and detailed exploration of the African past from prehistory to approximately 1870 is intended to provide a fully up to date complement to the Cambridge History of Africa Reflecting several emphases in recent scholarship it focusses on the changing modes of production on gender relations and on ecology laying particular stress on viewing history from below A distinctive theme is to be found in its analyses of cognitive history The work falls into three sections The first comprises a historiographic analysis and covers the period from the dawn of prehistory to the end of the Early Iron Age The second and third sections are for the most part organised on regional lines the second section ends in the sixteenth century the third carries the story on to 1870 A second volume now in preparation will cover the period from 1870 to 1995 This book attempts a more rounded view of African history than most of the other textbooks on the subject addressed to a largely undergraduate level student Earlier histories have tended to ignore some of the current foci in the scholarly literature on Africa generally not reflected in the textbooks these include discussions of topical issues like ecology and gender Isichei s book is also more radical
