

Lesson 1

Engage/Explore

AT A GLANCE

Overview

Lesson 1 engages the students in oral health by introducing a visitor: Exee from planet Y. Exee does not have a mouth and asks students what purpose their mouth serves. After students list everything their mouth helps them do, they sort the functions according to those that help them eat, drink, and communicate. Next, students play the game, Mouth Mirrors, in which they mimic the mouth movements of a partner. Through this game, students identify some of the structures of their oral cavity. Next, they eat a cracker and pay attention to how their mouth helps them eat. They connect the structures with the functions of the oral cavity. At the end of the lesson, students begin a Mouth Journal in which they answer the question, What would you tell Exee about the mouth?

Purpose

In this lesson, students will

- become engaged in learning about the mouth (oral cavity) and oral health and
- recognize that our mouth serves many purposes and has different parts.

Objectives

After completing this lesson, students will

- realize that the human mouth performs many functions that help a person eat, drink, and communicate (including speech and facial expressions);
- name functions of the mouth that help a person eat, such as bite, chew, taste, and swallow;
- describe functions of the mouth that help a person drink, such as open, close, taste, and swallow;
