E. Richardson, Paula J. Caplan, Mary Crawford, Janet Shibley Hyde, 1997-09-04 This volume in the Counterpoints Series summarizes and addresses the validity of research into gender differences It also questions the ideology behind this research and its consequences The work is intended for researchers and students in the field of cognitive psychology and women s studies and psychologists interested in gender issues Gender Differences in Congressional Speeches Dragana Lenard, 2023-11-25 This book studies gender differences in language used in the 113th United States Congress January 2013 January 2015 The corpus was composed of all uninterrupted speeches of 100 words or more which amounted to 672 speeches by the female and 2 983 by the male politicians The speeches were analysed to determine language categories used by the politicians including word count grammatical categories different topics and punctuation categories to study the differences in language use by the male and the female politicians They were also used in examining some intragroup differences and correlations between variables Several major gender differences emerged The female politicians were shown to be more formal critical and task focused while the male politicians were more socially oriented and elaborative occupying the floor more than the female politicians While the female politicians worked on establishing themselves as independent politicians the male politicians embraced their collective identities Also the female politicians focused on raising the awareness of different health issues and providing support for patients and their families the male politicians focused on the consequences and possible solutions to the problems The analysis includes implications for political discourse and gender disparities within that discourse and will be of interest to researchers in both politics and political science and in gender and diversity

Sex Differences in Cognitive Abilities Diane F. Halpern, 2000-02-01 In the third edition of her popular text Sex Differences in Cognitive Abilities Diane Halpern tackles fundamental questions about the meaning of sex differences in cognition and why people are so afraid of the differences She provides a comprehensive context for understanding the theories and research on this controversial topic The author employs the psychobiosocial model of cognition to negotiate a cease fire on the nature nurture wars and offers a more holistic and integrative conceptualization of the forces that make people unique This new edition reflects the explosion of theories and research in the area over the past several years New techniques for peering into the human brain have changed the nature of the questions being asked and the kinds of answers that can be expected There have been surprising new findings on the influence of sex hormones on cognitive abilities across the life span as well as an increasing number of studies examining how attention paid to category variables such as one's sex race or age affects unconscious and automatic cognitive processes Written in a clear engaging style this new edition takes a refreshing look at the science and politics of cognitive sex differences Although it is a comprehensive and up to date synthesis of scientific theory and research into how why when and to what extent females and males differ in intellectual abilities it conveys complex ideas and interrelationships among variables in an engrossing and understandable manner bridging the gap between sensationalized pop literature and highly technical scientific journals Halpern's thought provoking perspectives on this controversial topic will be of interest to students and professionals alike

Gonadal Hormones and Sex Differences in Behavior Sheri A. Berenbaum, 2014-10-13 As the papers in this special issue demonstrate gonadal hormones have powerful effects on the development of the brain and behavior in human beings as in other species Both androgens and estrogens affect behavior throughout development from early prenatal life through adulthood as demonstrated in studies with a variety of methods in several species The articles also describe attempts to identify the mechanisms neural and basic behavioral that mediate hormonal effects on complex human behaviors This issue testifies to the breadth and vitality of research into the ways that hormones affect the development of sex typical behavior and illustrates several important themes that have emerged in human psychoneuroendocrinology First it is now clear that hormones do affect human behavior and the important questions relate to the mechanisms and details of hormone action Second there are many ways to study hormone effects on human behavior and this issue describes these methods and their products Third traditional conceptions of hormone behavior relations have generally stood the test of time but recent developments have begun to reveal the complexity of these relations Taken as a whole the articles in this special issue are interesting and worthwhile reading in their own right but they may also act to stimulate developmental neuropsychologists to consider hormones in their own studies

Sex and Gender Differences in Personal Relationships Daniel J. Canary, Tara M. Emmers-Sommer, Sandra Faulkner, 1998-10-16 Challenging a commonly held assumption that men and women hail from different psychological and social planets this illuminating work reexamines what the empirical research really shows about how the sexes communicate in close relationships The volume demonstrates that stereotypical beliefs about men and women fail to predict their actual interaction behavior and highlights evidence of similarities as well as differences between the two groups Setting forth an integrative theory of gender differences the authors propose that communication behavior in different activities is the means by which sex and gender role expectations are created and sustained This volume is suitable for students scholars and researchers in communication social psychology marriage and family studies and gender studies as well as clinicians working with individuals couples and families
