Looking for Trouble Richard Beeston, 2006 Killing the Messenger Herbert N. Foerstel, 2006-03-30 Killing the Messenger reveals the dangerous new face of war and journalism Covering armed conflicts has always been dangerous business but in the past press heroes like Ernie Pyle and Edward R Murrow faced only the danger of random bullets or bombs Today s war correspondent is actually in the cross hairs a target of combatants on all sides of conflicts In their own words correspondents describe the new dangers they face and attempt to explain why they are targeted Killing the Messenger reveals the dangerous new face of war and journalism Covering armed conflicts has always been dangerous business but in the past press heroes like Ernie Pyle and Edward R Murrow faced only the danger of random bullets or bombs Today s war correspondent is actually in the cross hairs a target of combatants on all sides of conflicts In this book correspondents describe the new dangers they face and attempt to explain why they are targeted Is it simply that modern combatants are more brutal than in the past or has journalism changed making correspondents players rather than observers in modern warfare Extended interviews with correspondents who have been abducted and tortured during Middle East conflicts shed chilling light on this new face of war These journalists who have paid dearly to bring first hand images of war to the public offer some surprising insights into the nature and motivation of their kidnappers and the reasons why reporters are targeted They display no self pity and little inclination to blame anyone other than themselves At the same time they are candid in describing the violence within Iraq and without Ways to reduce the risks for reporters are discussed but these editors and correspondents suggest that short of withdrawing into isolated and protected enclaves they may be facing an indefinite escalation of violence against journalists
