Phraseology and Culture in English Paul Skandera, 2008-08-22 The proposition that there is a correlation between language and culture or culture specific ways of thinking can be traced back to the views of Herder and von Humboldt in the late 18th and early 19th centuries It is generally accepted today that a language especially its lexicon influences its speakers cultural patterns of thought and perception in various ways for example through a culture specific segmentation of the extralinguistic reality the frequency of occurrence of particular lexical items or the existence of keywords or key word combinations revealing core cultural values The aim of this volume is to explore the cultural dimension of a wide range of preconstructed or semi preconstructed word combinations in English The 17 papers of the volume are divided into four sections focusing on particular lexemes e g enjoy and its collocates types of word combinations e g proverbs and similes use related varieties such as the language of tourism or answering machine messages and user related varieties such as Aboriginal English or African English The sections are preceded by a prologue tracing the development of the study of formulaic language and followed by an epilogue which draws together the threads laid out in the various papers The relation between language and culture in general has been explored in a number of important works over the past ten years However the study of the relation between English phraseology and culture in particular has been largely neglected This volume is the first book length publication devoted entirely to this topic

Hollywood Shot by Shot Norman K. Denzin, 2017-09-04 To what extent have Hollywood feature films shaped the meanings that Americans attach to alcoholics their families and the alcoholic condition To what extent has the mass culture of the movie industry itself been conceptually shaped by a broad external societal discourse Norman Denzin brings to his life long study of alcoholism a searching interest in how cultural texts signify and lend themselves to interpretation within a social nexus Both historical and diachronic in his approach Denzin identifies five periods in the alcoholism films made between 1932 and the end of the 1980s and offers a detailed critical reading of thirty seven films produced during these six decades
