The Making of Urban Europe, 1000-1994 Paul M. HOHENBERG, Lynn Hollen Lees, Paul M Hohenberg, 2009-06-30 Europe became a land of cities during the last millennium The story told in this book begins with North Sea and Mediterranean traders sailing away from Dorestad and Amalfi and with warrior kings building castles to fortify their conquests It tells of the dynamism of textile towns in Flanders and Ireland While London and Hamburg flourished by reaching out to the world and once vibrant Spanish cities slid into somnolence a Russian urban network slowly grew to rival that of the West Later as the tide of industrialization swept over Europe the most intense urban striving and then settled back into the merchant cities and baroque capitals of an earlier era By tracing the large scale processes of social economic and political change within cities as well as the evolving relationships between town and country and between city and city the authors present an original synthesis of European urbanization within a global context They divide their study into three time periods making the early modern era much more than a mere transition from preindustrial to industrial economies Through both general analyses and incisive case studies Hohenberg and Lees show how cities originated and what conditioned their early development and later growth How did urban activity respond to demographic and technological changes Did the social consequences of urban life begin degradation or inspire integration and cultural renewal New analytical tools suggested by a systems view of urban relations yield a vivid dual picture of cities both as elements in a regional and national hierarchy of central places and also as junctions in a transnational network for the exchange of goods information and influence A lucid text is supplemented by numerous maps illustrations figures and tables and by substantial bibliography Both a general and a scholarly audience will find this book engrossing reading Table of Contents Introduction Urbanization in Perspective PART I The Preindustrial Age eleventh to Fourteenth Centuries 1 Structure and Functions of Medieval Towns 2 Systems of Early Cities 3 The Demography of Preindustrial Cities PART II The Industrial Age Fourteenth to Eighteenth Centuries 4 Cities in the Early Modern European Economy 5 Beyond Baroque Urbanism PART III The Industrial Age Eighteenth to Twentieth Centuries 6 Industrial and the Cities 7 Urban Growth and Urban Systems 8 The Human Consequences of Industrial Urbanization 9 The Evolution and Control of Urban Space 10 Europe's Cities in the Twentieth Century Appendix A A Cyclical Model of an Economy Appendix B Size Distributions and the Ranks Size Rule Notes Bibliography Index Reviews of this book A readable and ambitious introduction to the long history of European urbanization Economic History Review Reviews of this book A trailblazing history of the transformation of Europe John Barkham Reviews Reviews of this book A marvelously compendious account of a millennium of urban development which accomplishes that most difficult of assignments to design a work that will safely introduce the newcomer to the subject and at the same time stimulate professional colleagues to review positions Urban Studies The Making of Urban Europe, 1000-1950 Paul M. www.wileystudentchoice.com Europe is the second smallest of the continents yet it is the third most populated and its rich history has played out on the world's maps for centuries. The region's borders have undergone near continuous evolution through the rise and fall of nations, rebellions and civilizations and the paths these borders take have repercussions around the globe. This book presents a systematic survey of Europe and individual country by country coverage based on the most current data. From the core of the European Union to the lesser known corners of the continent, this book provides in depth examination of the physical, cultural, economic and political geography of this powerful region. Fresh perspective sheds new light on recent events including Brexit, Russia's takeover of Crimea, terrorist attacks in France and the EU's newest members while the European Union's future is explored in light of the possible loss of the region's second largest economy. With deep insight into each nation and its relationship to the region, this book offers a uniquely intimate look at the various dynamics shaping Europe today.

The Cambridge World History: Volume 7, Production, Destruction and Connection, 1750-Present, Part 2, Shared Transformations? J. R. McNeill, Kenneth Pomeranz, 2015-04-16 Since 1750 the world has become ever more connected with processes of production and destruction no longer limited by land or water based modes of transport and communication. Volume 7 of the Cambridge World History series, divided into two books, offers a variety of angles of vision on the increasingly interconnected history of humankind. The second book questions the extent to which the transformations of the modern world have been shared, focusing on social developments such as urbanization, migration and changes in family and sexuality, cultural connections through religion, science, music and sport, ligaments of globalization including rubber, drugs and the automobile and moments of particular importance from the Atlantic Revolutions to 1989.

Small Towns in Early Modern Europe Peter Clark, 2002-05-09 Despite the great wave of publications on European cities and towns in the pre industrial period, little has been written about the thousands of small towns which played a key role in the economic, social and cultural life of early modern Europe. This collection, written by leading experts, redresses that imbalance. It provides the first comparative overview of European small towns from the fifteenth to the early nineteenth century, examining their position in the urban hierarchy, demographic structures, economic trends, relations with the countryside and political and cultural developments. Case studies discuss networks in all the major European countries as well as looking at the distinctive world of small towns in the more peripheral countries of Scandinavia and central Europe. A wide ranging editorial introduction puts individual chapters in historical perspective.

Crime, Gender and Social Control in Early Modern Frankfurt am Main Jeannette Kamp, 2019-12-09 This book charts the lives of suspected thieves, illegitimate mothers and vagrants in early modern Frankfurt. The book highlights the gender differences in recorded criminality and the way that they were shaped by the local context. Women played a prominent role in recorded crime in this period and could even make up half of all defendants in specific European cities. At the same time, there were also large regional differences. Women's crime patterns in Frankfurt were both similar and different to those of other cities Informal control within the household played a significant role and influenced the prosecution patterns of authorities This impacted men and women differently and created clear distinctions within the system between settled locals and unsettled migrants Rethinking Nationalism Jonathan S. Hearn, 2020-06-29 This is an innovative and interdisciplinary introduction to the study of nationalism The author uses paired chapters first to present the work of key authors in relation to each of a set of key themes primordialism modernism power and culture and then critically to rethink these core concepts Communities and Conflict in Early Modern Colmar Peter George Wallace, 1995 From 1575 to 1730 the citizens of the Alsatian Imperial city of Colmar were divided between Protestant and Catholic communities plagued by chronic warfare and ultimately subjugated by the kingdom of France Drawing on a rich collection of serial archival sources Wallace reconstructs the collective biography of 6 700 civic officials merchants artisans and agricultural workers in order to examine the local impact of confessionalization in a religiously mixed town the effect of warfare on the economic interdependence of town and country and the tensions between French absolutism and traditional civic political culture Economic historians scholars of the Reformation and students of French and German history will find many valuable insights in this multifaceted analysis Divide and Conquer George Weisz, 2006 Examines one of the most significant and characteristic features of modern medicine specialization in historical and comparative context This title traces the origins of modern medical specialization to 1830s Paris and examines its spread to Germany Britain and the US
