Online safety tips to support children

internet
matters.org

What are kids doing?

- It's a time when children are beginning to make deeper social connections for the first time and learning how to interact with each other online which can be overwhelming.
- The smartphone becomes a status symbol and an important tool to stay connected to their friends but it also puts them under pressure to interact.
- School interactions with friends cross over into the online world and it can be challenging to balance with school work and other activities.

Online activities

- Socialising on a range of social apps
- Watching videos and series through streaming services and video sharing platforms like YouTube
- Building their digital footprint by sharing details about their day-to-day life with friends and family or people they've met online
- Playing video games online with friends
- Doing homework using school assigned apps and even video chat with friends
- Taking part in online challenges with friends

Are they ready for a smartphone?

As children move to secondary school, they'll likely have a greater interest in getting a smartphone to stay in touch with friends or join the latest platform.

Whether your child is ready depends on many things. Find guidance here.
