Automotive Prosthetic Charissa N. Terranova, 2014-01-15 In the twenty first century we are continually confronted with the existential side of technology the relationships between identity and the mechanizations that have become extensions of the self Focusing on one of humanity's most ubiquitous machines Automotive Prosthetic Technological Mediation and the Car in Conceptual Art combines critical theory and new media theory to form the first philosophical analysis of the car within works of conceptual art These works are broadly defined to encompass a wide range of creative expressions particularly in car based conceptual art by both older established artists and younger emerging artists including Ed Ruscha Martha Rosler Richard Prince Sylvie Fleury Yael Bartana Jeremy Deller and Jonathan Schipper At its core the book offers an alternative formation of conceptual art understood according to technology the body moving through space and what art historian curator and artist Jack Burnham calls relations This thought provoking study illuminates the ways in which the automobile becomes a naturalized extension of the human body incarnating new forms of car art and spurring a technological reframing of conceptual art Steeped in a sophisticated take on the image and semiotics of the car the chapters probe the politics of materialism as well as high low debates about taste culture and art The result is a highly innovative approach to contemporary intersections of art and technology

Twentieth Century Limited Jeffrey Meikle,2010-06-04 Classic indispensable introduction to industrial design in the last century

The Routledge Companion to Twentieth and Early Twenty-First Century Urban Design Jon Lang,2020-11-09 The Routledge Companion to Twentieth and Early Twenty First Century Urban Design is a fully illustrated descriptive and explanatory history of the development of urban design ideas and paradigms of the past 150 years The ideas and projects hypothetical and built range in scale from the city to the urban block level The focus is on where the generic ideas originated the projects that were designed following their precepts the functions they address and or afford and what we can learn from them The morphology of a city its built environment evolves unselfconsciously as private and governmental investors self consciously erect buildings and infrastructure in a pragmatic piecemeal manner to meet their own ends Philosophers novelists architects and social scientists have produced myriad ideas about the nature of the built environment that they consider to be superior to those forms resulting from a laissez faire attitude to urban development Rationalist theorists dream of ideal futures based on assumptions about what is good empiricists draw inspirations from what they perceive to be working well in existing situations Both groups have presented their advocacies in manifestoes and often in the form of generic solutions or illustrative designs This book traces the history of these ideas and will become a standard reference for scholars and students interested in the history of urban spaces including architects planners urban historians urban geographers and urban morphologists

Art, Design, Craft, Beauty and All Those Things... Donald Richardson,2023-08-18 Responding to many recent calls for redress and restitution Richardson summarises the historical and current situation and attributes its problematics to the fact that theorists and historians have taken the concept art as a generic that includes both design and craft which are actually and validly distinguishable from art by application of the concept functional or else ignored the two entirely Considering the conceptual he maintains calls into question the view that the three may be sub classes of the one class whereas in a work of art typically there is a resolution of the tension between form and content in works of design and craft the resolution is between form and function How this recognition can clarify the issue informs the entire book The book's other major thesis is the realisation that aesthetic values are inherently human and that therefore they apply not only to art but to life in general Far from being frivolous or a mere emotion the aesthetic is a sense of equivalent psychic status to sight and hearing and like them is employed at almost every moment of our daily lives which fact grounds art design and craft deeply in human life This is reflected in the universal use of the human form including the exhibition of sexual characteristics in art The eternal conflict between making art and making a living from making art is examined and contrasted to the rarely recognised but positive role of design in planning and industry

Richardson also critiques common theories of representation and composition including creativity Albertian perspective and scientific and geometric theories of beauty and composition also the relevance of the camera and the computer in the field
